BERLIN REFUSES BLAME FOR RIOT

Tells French Restrictions Prevent Investigation

BERLIN, July 7.—The German government today flatly refused to assume responsibility for sabotage fatalities in the Ruhr.

Representatives of France and Belgium presented a formal demand that Germany denounce the "Dolfschlag" outrages in which 20 Belgians lost their lives, and assume responsibility for the first of the perpetrations.

Although it is expected that severe penalties will follow Germany's refusal, Belgium has sought to make this a cause for a break of diplomatic relations with Foreign Minister Rosenberg replied the government did not admit that Germany or German were responsible.

The delegates told Rosenberg their countries regarded the German government as guilty of furthering the activities of extremists in the Ruhr. The German foreign minister replied that France and Belgium could not make this country responsible for injustices occasioned by the Franco-Belgian invasion.

Owing to the French restrictions, Rosenberg pointed out, the government is unable to investigate alleged sabotage and consequently cannot assume responsibility.

Jury Returns Murder Verdict in 25 Minutes

LAKE CITY, Fla., July 7.—T. W. Higginbotham, "whipping boss" in the convict camp at Clara, was found guilty of the murder of Martin Tabert of North Dakota by a jury here tonight.

The jury after deliberating 25 minutes found Higginbotham guilty of murder in the second degree, which carries a sentence of 20 years in the state penitentiary.

Ill Juror Sees It Through.

A mistrial was averted only by the determination of L. M. Chambers, a juror, who suffering intense pain from an attack of appendicitis, remained in the court room as attorneys concluded their arguments.

On three previous occasions, Chambers' condition has been so serious that evidence taking was halted while physicians examined him.

Died After Flogging.

The trial which has been in progress nearly two weeks produced evidence showing that Tabert died following a flogging received while in the prison camp at Clara.

Witnesses declared Higginbotham in one instance put his heel on the youth's neck while he layed him with a heavy lash until his back was bloody.

In the future the clinics will be conducted on Wednesday and Thursday afternoons from 2 to 4 o'clock. This additional day was made because of the growth of the clinic, Red Cross nurses said Saturday.

BRYAN SOUNDS '24 BATTLE CRY

Says Domestic Problems Must Take Precedence

NAMES NO CHOICE

Dire Strait of Farmer May Bring Disaster. Hints

(Copyright, 1923, by United Press Associations.)

LINCOLN, Neb., July 7.—William J. Bryan, "dean of Bourbon," today sounded what many political leaders regard as the initial democratic battle cry for the 1924 political campaign.

Bryan, in an exclusive interview with the United Press, declared that unless the coming congress eliminates them with a remedy, the issues will be:

Wall Street and Profiteers.

The deplorable conditions of farmers, a tribunal to settle disputes between capital and labor, the federal land bank, "which has been captured by Wall Street," and profiteers "who are the chief obstacle to prosperity."

Besides these, there will be matters of law enforcement and legislation of international scope, "but one domestic situation is so acute it would be impossible to ignore it, no matter how perfect international demands be," Bryan said.

The commoner met many prominent democrats and friends upon his return to Lincoln after an extended speaking tour of the country. He refused to comment on possible democratic candidates for president, saying that he has not expressed any opinion as to their relative merits and will not until he knows what they stand for.

Congress May Set Issues.

In speaking of issues, it is necessary to bear in mind that the coming session of congress is likely to determine issues in the next campaign," Bryan said. "Anything said at this time is like price quotations which are subject to a change."

Certain issues are probable, however. They are:

"First, economies—The farmer is in a deplorable condition. He is selling at pre-war level and buying on a level fifty per cent higher than the pre-war level. This means that the farmer cannot buy two-thirds as much now as before and eventually must do without things they need or go bankrupt."

Something must be done to raise the farmers' prices or to lower the prices of things he buys.

"Second, some tribunal must be established for the investigation for certain disputes between capital and labor before they reach the stage of strikes and lockouts. These two elements are drifting apart and must be brought back together so they can cooperate in a spirit of brotherhood."

Major Parties Must Act Together.

"Third, the federal bank which has been captured by Wall Street, it must be brought out of the hands of Wall Street and made over again—as an agency of the protection for the public."

"Fourth, the profiteer is the chief obstacle to prosperity, and nothing is being done to curb him. All lines of industry that can combine are combining and organizing—leaving the masses the victims of all these combinations. The exploiters were never more fully in control of the country than now and that control is sufficient to prevent the amelioration necessary."

"No one, of course, can tell how the importance of these issues shall be increased or diminished by the action of the coming congress."

Democrats and Republicans—who together control both houses—will act together, something will be done."

TWO RIFLE CLUB SHOOTS HELD UP

Permission Not Received for Spoil Bank Range

Until permission is obtained from the government to use the spoil bank across the ship canal as a site for a rifle range, or until another suitable site can be found, Port Arthur's two rifle clubs are unable to practice.

Explanation of the sudden halting of the clubs' progress was made Saturday by Major W. C. Parrish, who organized the clubs, and now has in hand the work of obtaining the necessary permission from the government for setting up a rifle and pistol range on the spoil bank, or locating an equally suitable site, he said.

The two clubs, the Port Arthur Rifle and Pistol club, and the Council City Rifle club, with the National Guard units stationed in Port Arthur, were to have pooled funds and financed the construction of the target ranges, Major Parrish said.

Work of constructing the rifle and pistol ranges on the spoil bank was started, but government engineers stopped it, Major Parrish said.

During the chase Anderson fired a pistol in the air in an effort to halt the black. The shot brought residents in the north section of the city out into the streets and excitement ran high. Police were summoned to the scene with a report that a man had been shot.

Finally, holding passing automobiles, Hopper headed the fleeing negro off and kept him until Anderson came up. The two carried Johnson to police headquarters, where he was looked on the police blotter for man-factors, mischief and then lodged in jail. The complaint filed against the negro carries a maximum fine of $200 and jail sentence.

NEGRO YOUTH IS CAPTURED

Ambulance He Calls Runs Him Down

FAILS TO HEED SHOT

Apprehension Follows Epidemic of Fake Calls

The fake ambulance call mystery is solved.

H Ezekiah Johnson, negro youth, confessed to calling the emergency ambulances out of the Grammier establishment twice recently, police said Saturday, following Ezekiah's arrest in the 2000 block of Procter street alley.

Now the negro boy is in jail awaiting hearing in corporation court on a complaint of malicious mischief lodged on the police blotter against him by Ray Anderson, special police officer, and embittered at the Grammier establishment.

Arrest Followed Fake Call.

Suspicion of summoning the ambulances on fake emergency runs was fastened upon Johnson Friday night about 9 o'clock following a call which sent the ambulance rushing to Lincoln avenue and Tenth street, Anderson said Saturday.

With James Roper, also employed at the Grammier establishment, Anderson went to the negro's house in the rear of a place on Lake Charles avenue about noon Saturday, arriving just as the negro was leaving.

As he saw the men from the Grammier place, the negro fled with Anderson and Roper in pursuit.

Taken by Police.

During the chase Anderson fired a pistol in the air in an effort to halt the black. The shot brought residents in the north section of the city out into the streets and excitement ran high. Police were summoned to the scene with a report that a man had been shot.

Treasure Legend Is Relic of Baron Burr's Dream of Conquest of Southwestern Empire

FIND LEATHER BAGS, NO GOLD

350,000 Pesos Abandoned
In 1807 Never Found

Since the days of Captain Kidd, the famous pirate of early colonial history, and of Jean Lafitte, the buccaneer, who for years, in the mellow past, frequented the shores of the Atlantic coast and the Gulf of Mexico from Galveston Island to South Carolina, people have looked for buried treasure in a thousand different places along the ocean and gulf shore, along bays and secluded inlets and sluggish layons and coves. In the hope of stumbling upon the vast amount to gold and precious jewels which legend, romance, song and story have said they buried and never returned to claim. In some places companies have even been formed and thousands of dollars spent in fruitless search. Two places especially have been the favored localities where these searches have been made—Galveston Island and the Island of Grand Terre, 60 miles due south of the many-mouthed Mississippi, where Lafitte made his headquarters for a few years, and where he built a small village which he named Barataria.

Near Lake Charles, La., there is a dark, swampy bayou, called Catrabad bayou, and the legend is that somewhere along the banks of this bayou, which is only a few miles from the gulf, the famous pirate once buried a vast amount of treasure and barely escaped capture at the hands of federal ships that had orders to break up his nefarious nest at Barataria. This locality has been one of the many other searching places for money hunters.

The Neutral Ground story is actually based upon a famous historical fact, concerning which little has ever been said by historians. When Aaron Burr planned his southwestern empire, it is alleged that he took General James Wilkinson, at one time in command of the armies of the United States, into his confidence to the extent that Burr had arranged all his plans, and was ready to come down the Ohio and Mississippi rivers with his flotilla, and establish headquarters on the 320,000 acres of land he had bought from Charles Lynch, in what is now Monroe parish, Louisiana. Wilkinson was to join him with the United States army in his command in the south. The aggregation would

FIGHTS HEAT WITH SMILES

How? Sure it is! But little 2-year-old Joe Carr, son of L. T. Carr of Cincinnati, doesn't seem to mind it at all. He just goes on "smiling through." Try his stunt some of these days when you're sweltering in these way-up-in-the-90 temperatures.

march into Mexico, it was planned, west that country from Spain and establish in the land of the cactus and eagle an empire to which thousands of disgruntled Americans in the southern part of the United States were expected to flock, and of which the beautiful and accomplished Theodosia Burr Alston would be queen.

It is alleged that just as all the plans of Burr were ready, and he was about to set forth from the famous house of Blennerhassett on several thousand American soldiers, marched to the east bank of the Sabine river, in what is now Sabine parish, Louisiana, and there met and conferred with General Herrera and Governor Cordero, who had marched to the west bank, in what is now Sabine county, Texas. It looked as if there was going to be a fight, but the historian alleged that in the night time while the American army and the Spanish army rested on their arms, ready to fight the next day, Wilkinson met the Spanish general in secret conference somewhere in the dark woods, in the Sabine bottom. They entered into an agreement by the terms of which, the Spanish army was to return to the west, the American army to return to the east, and a strip of territory about 60 miles wide, extending from the Sabine river to the Calcasieu river, and as far up as the vicinity of where Natchitoches stands, should be called and fixed as "Neutral Ground," not to be occupied by either of the two governments.

Commanders' Reach Agreement—This was not all. It was alleged that for making this deal Wilkinson was promised something like 350,000 pesos by Herrera, who took the chance of his government ratifying the deal, and that of this amount 120,000 pesos in silver, all the money Herrera had in his army chest, was paid down to Wilkinson, and Wilkinson sent one of his trusted aides Walter Burling, and two other men to the city of Mexico to get the balance of the money.

Tradition says Burling got the money. Placing it in rucksack sacks, on the backs of many burros or donkeys as was necessary, he and his two companions set out on the long route to Natchitoches, La., lying in the woods some distance from the road in the daytime and traveling only at night. In this way they reached San Antonio by and by and there took their course eastward along El Camino del Real, or "San Antonio road."

All went well until a point was reached some 15 miles east of where the town of Nacogdoches now stands, when something told Burling that he was being followed by bandits. To ascertain if his intuition was true, Burling sent one of his assistants to the rear to investigate and he soon came hurrying back with the information that a bunch of bandits were in fact on their trail.

Whipping his burros into a gallop Burling and his companions made haste to reach Attoyague bayou, two or three miles in advance. Burling having made up his mind to dump his treasure into the dark waters of this stream, and make his way, the best he could, to Natchitoches. His plans had hardly been formed when the distant gallop of the approaching bandits was heard. Leaving the road, Burling and his companions presently reached the Attoyague, some distance from the crossing, so tradition said, and hastily dismounting pitched the entire consignment of silver into the water. Then hastily slaying two or three trees so a place could be identified in event he should have opportunity to recover the treasure, he and his companions swam across and made their escape, finally reaching Natchitoches minus everything but the miserable mules they bestrode.

Tradition Gets Busy

As the years passed legend and tradition got busy. The abandonment of the treasure was in 1807, according to history. Some time between 1830 and 1840, according to a statement made by Dr. John M. Sparks, who for many years had lived at Nacogdoches, he got hold of an old map, which he conceived to be the key to the buried treasure of Walter Burling. He and some friends decided to give their secret a good test. With negro laborers, the Attoyague bayou in the vicinity of the old crossing and after locating several trees with peculiar and aged marks, they proceeded to get busy. The stream was dammed and its course diverted, and at a certain place and just below the dam an excavation was made. At a considerable depth a Spanish pack saddle or remains of a Spanish pack saddle was found, but not a cent of the treasure itself was found, if indeed there ever was any treasure there. Dr. Sparks, however, was of the opinion that he had hit upon the very spot where Burling had abandoned his silver, and that it was so heavy it had sunk to unreach-able depths in the sand during the long period in which it had rested in the bayou.

It was about three decades ago when scores of companies in the north and east, knowing of the fascination that attaches to looking for buried treasure, prepared to cash in on the situation. So they placed advertisements in certain cheap journals to the effect that by the use of a wonderful "mineral rod" which they had perfected, by means of an ancient secret which had been unearthed, an amateur could locate easily all buried treasure in the vicinity of where the rod was used and its use was very simple. The mineral rod was a small glass bottle, little larger than a common lead pencil and hardly as long, filled with nothing but steel particles, iron dust iron prisms and perhaps a few other worthless elements. This wonderful rod cost $30, and in many localities groups of men raked that amount together and sent for the fake outfit, which they used in visiting every locality where an old house, stone or an old settled and abandoned place, where innumerable holes were dug in response to the pointing of the mineral rod, and in which not one cent was ever found.

All along the old San Antonio road

mineral rods have been used to locate traditional buried treasure. On the site of the old San Antonio mission, on the San Antonio river in Bexar county, numbers of holes were pointed out as being the evidence of chronic money hunters, and in some instances the old mission wall had even been dynamited in the foolish search.

Another of the last strongholds of romance and adventure—India—begins succumbing to the steam roller, civilization. We like to think of India as a quaint jungle country of temples, tigers, buried jewels and magicians. But a trade report tells us that India already has 265 cotton mills, swarms of steel plants, a billion dollars worth of irrigation projects under way, and a growing network of government-owned railroads. This, is "progress"—which makes the world duller.

Society Interested In Two Weddings of Note For the Coming Week

WEDDINGS, weddings! Wedding bells have been ringing continuously the past few weeks, for hardly a week has passed during the early summer season in which a wedding is not recorded in the annals of society. June had its usual number of weddings to witness and July promises to be a month much favored by pretty brides who do not prefer Dan Cupid's chosen month.

Brides-to-be will have the right of way from now on until the close of July or later, there being several weddings listed for the mid-summer season, and each bride-elect being extensively entertained.

Society is interested in the two weddings scheduled to take place this week: that of Miss Clara Repschlaeger and Mr. H. Claude Holmes which will be an event of Wednesday; and the wedding of Miss Alma Maude Smith and Mr. Edward S. Harrison which will be solemnized on Thursday.

The Repschlaeger-Holmes wedding will be a simple but charming wedding at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Repschlaeger, 1230 Seventh street, at 4 o'clock Wednesday afternoon.

The home will be in attractive adornment for the pretty wedding, with a profusion of summer flowers and green foliage forming a lovely background for the impressive ceremony.

Miss Repschlaeger's bridal costume will be of white georgette with dainty touches of ribbon trimmings and she will carry a bouquet of lovely roses and lilies-of-the-valley. She will be given in marriage by her father, Miss Gladys Garrett, who will be the bride's only attendant, will wear an adorable frock of lavender organza trimmed with ribbons of pastel shades. W. H. McCorkle will be best man.

Miss Gertrude Amburn, the bride-elect's niece, will render a program of musical selections, and Miss Gladys Allen will sing "I Love You Truly." Miss Allen will wear a dainty white organza frock. A piano accompaniment will be given by Miss Alice Taylor.

A reception will be held after the wedding ceremony, following which the young couple will make a wedding tour of Houston, San Antonio and Lueville, at the latter place visiting Mr. Holmes' parents.

The popularity of the young couple is evidenced by the many beautiful presents being received from their many friends and by the pre-nuptial affairs being given for Miss Repschlaeger. Miss Repschlaeger was reared in Port Arthur, is an accomplished musician and of magnetic personality. Mr. Holmes is well known here. He is an employee of the Gulf Refining company.

Upon their return to Port Arthur, they will make their home at 1210 Seventh street, where an attractive furnished apartment awaits them.

MISS SMITH'S wedding, Mr. Harrison's bride at 3 o'clock Thursday afternoon at St. George's Episcopal church, will be an elaborate affair at which Rev. J. A. Frampton will read the impressive Episcopal service.

The church will be in lovely bridal adornment for the occasion, with tall palms and beautiful white blossoms placed in effective arrangement about the altar and sides of St. George's Episcopal church.

The wedding music will be given by Prof. A. M. Culpepper, and the bride's brother-in-law, W. D. Annin, will officiate. At the wedding, preceding the service of the bride's party.

The bride, who will be given in marriage by her father, will be attired in a beautiful gown of white Canton crepe with picture hat and accessories in harmony. She will carry an exquisite bouquet of bride's roses.

Miss Dovey Smith, her sister, will be the maid of honor and will be gowned in a pink and blue Paisley chiffon frock with a corsage of sweet peas of harmonizing shades.

Following the ceremony and congratulations, a reception will be held at the home of the bride's parents, 2849 Sixth street, and will be attended by the bride's party and a group of intimate friends of the young couple. About one hundred guests will attend the wedding.

After an extended honeymoon trip to Houston, Galveston, San Antonio and other Texas points Mr. Harrison and his bride will return to Port Arthur to make their home temporarily at 2849 Sixth street.

The wedding is of wide interest to Port Arthur on account of the popularity of the bride-elect. Miss Alma Maude Smith is a member of the 1923 graduating class of the Port Arthur High school and has been reared in Port Arthur. She is a charming young woman and endeared herself to a host of friends during her school days. Mr. Harrison is an employee of the Gulf Refining company.

Mr. Harrison's father, Edward S. Harrison, Sr., and his sister, Miss Emily Harrison, of Philadelphia, have arrived in the city to attend the wedding. While here they are guests at the Smith home.

IF THESE TWINS TAUGHT IN ONE SCHOOL—

Children Would Have More Trouble Picking Their Teachers Than Learning Their Lessons

SAN ANGELO, Texas, July 7.

The school children of Tom Green county, Texas, are lucky.

For eight of their teachers comprise four sets of twins, yet in not a single of the county's rural schools did a pair of the twins teach together. They are known as the Fick, the Brown, the White, and the Ritter twins.

Imagine the confusion if all the four sets of twins taught in one consolidated school, for instance. Most of them are so similar in features that the boys and girls would have a greater struggle trying to solve the puzzle of the twins than the hardest problem in algebra.

In only one case, however, would their guess be sure to come right. That is in the recognition of Miss Zada Ritter from her sister, Vada. Zada wears glasses and Vada doesn't. But their names are so similar, Zella and Zelmia White have a like experience.

she taught Saturday for Derby, England, where she will spend the summer months with relatives and friends.

CAN YOU PAIR THESE TWINS?
Suppose these eight girls, comprising four sets of twins, taught in one school. Could you pair them and distinguish each? Try your luck, as their pictures are shown here, to see if you can pair them which they are shown here.

However, for the benefit of the public and are teaching in various schools, let alone choosing their make matters even easier, not a single right teacher—the twins have parted set of twins teaches in the same school. All sets are broken up. To the end of the last school season, Martha Brown and Margaret Fick were teaching in the Harrison School, while Josephine Brown and Kathryn Fick taught in the same district at Grape Creek, while Vada, sister, was at Schertz, Zella White taught at Lake View and Zelmia White at Heiser.

Next term, one of the twins will be broken up so far as teaching school is concerned. For Zella White was married recently. But another set of twins is going to teach together—the Ficks.

The Brown twins also will quit teaching and go to college, and the Ritter twins are going back to the positions they held last year.

So, out of this conglomeration of school-teaching twins, only the Fick twins will provide additional difficulty to the pupils at Rock Springs, where they will teach next term.

Treasure Legend Is Relic of Baron Burr's Dream of Conquest of Southwestern Empire

FIND LEATHER BAGS, NO GOLD

350,000 Pesos Abandoned
In 1807 Never Found

Since the days of Captain Kidd, the famous pirate of early colonial history, and of Jean Lafitte, the buccannier, who for years, in the mellow past, frequented the shores of the Atlantic coast and the Gulf of Mexico from Galveston Island to South Carolina, people have looked for buried treasure in a thousand different places along the ocean and gulf shore, along bays and secluded inlets and sluggish lavons and canals, in the hope of stumbling upon the vast amount of gold and precious jewels which legend, romance, song and story have said they buried and never returned to claim. In some places companies have even been formed and thousands of dollars spent in fruitless search. Two places especially have been the favored localities where these searches have been made—Galveston Island and the Island of Grand Terre, 60 miles due south of the many mouthed Mississippi, where Lafitte made his headquarters for a few years, and where he built a small village which he named Barataria.

Near Lake Charles, La., there is a dark, sinuous bayou, called Cantraband bayou, and the legend is that somewhere along the banks of this bayou are only a few miles from the gulf, the famous pirate once buried a vast amount of treasure and barely escaped capture at the hands of federal ships that had orders to break up his nefarious nest at Barataria. This locality has been one of the many other searching places for money hunters.

The Neutral Ground Story
One of the buried treasure stories is actually based upon a famous historical fact, concerning which little has ever been said by historians. When Aaron Burr planned his southwestern empire, it is alleged that he took General James Wilkinson, at one time in command of the armies of the United States, into his confidence to the extent that when Burr had arranged all his plans, and was ready to come down the Ohio and Mississippi rivers, with his flotilla, and establish headquarters on the 320,000 acres of land he had bought from Charles Lyne, in what is now Monroe parish, Louisiana, Wilkinson was to join him with the United States army in his command in the south. The agreement would

FIGHTS HEAT WITH SMILES

Hot? Sure it is! But little 2-year-old Joe Carr, son of L. T. Carr of Cincinnati, doesn't seem to mind it at all. He just goes on "smiling through." Try his stunt some of these days when you're sweltering in these way-up-in-the-90 temperatures.

March into Mexico, it was planned, west that country from Spain and establish in the land of the cactus and eagle an empire to which thousands of disgruntled Americans in the southern part of the United States were expected to flock, and of which the beautiful and accomplished Thaddeus Burr Alston would be queen.

It is alleged that just as all the plans of Burr were ready, and he was about to set forth from the famous house of Blenheimset, on his plan of conquest, Wilkinson, with several thousand American soldiers, marched to the east bank of the Sabine river, in what is now Sabine parish, Louisiana, and there met and conferred with General Herrera and Governor Conde, who had marched to the west bank, in what is now Sabine county, Texas. It looked as if there was going to be a fight, but the historian alleged that in the night time while the American army and the Spanish army rested on their arms, ready to fight the next day, Wilkinson met the Spanish general in secret conference somewhere in the dark woods, in the Sabine bottom. They entered into an agreement by the terms of which, the Spanish army was to return to the west, the American army to return to the east, and a strip of territory about 60 miles wide, extending from the Sabine river to the Calcasieu river, and as far up as the vicinity of where Natchitoches stands, should be ceded not to be occupied by Spain nor the United States until a definite treaty could be arranged between the two governments.

Commanders' Reach Agreement
This was not all. It was alleged that for making this deal Wilkinson was promised something like 350,000 pesos by Herrera, who took the chance of his government ratifying the deal, and that of this amount

120,000 pesos in silver, all the money Herrera had in his army chest, was paid down to Wilkinson, and Wilkinson sent one of his trusted aides Walter Parling, and two other men to the city of Mexico to get the balance of the money.

Tradition says Parling got the money, placing it in rawhide sacks, on the backs of many burros, or donkeys as was necessary, and his two companions set out on the long route to Natchitoches, La., lying in the woods some distance from the road in the daytime and traveling only at night. In this way they reached San Antonio by and by and there took their course eastward along El Camino del Real, or "San Antonio road."

All went well until a point was reached some 15 miles east of where the town of Nacogdoches now stands, when something told Parling that he was being followed by bandits. To ascertain if his intuition was true, Parling sent one of his assistants to the rear to investigate and he soon came hurrying back with the information that a bunch of bandits were in fact on their trail.

Whipping his burros into a gallop Parling and his companions made haste to reach Attoyaque bayou, two or three miles in advance. Parling having made up his mind to dump his treasure into the dark waters of this stream, and make his way, the best he could, to Natchitoches. His plans had hardly been formed when the distant gallop of the approaching bandits was heard. Leaving the road, Parling and his companions presently reached the Attoyaque, some distance from the crossing, so tradition said, and hastily dismounting pitched the entire consignment of silver into the water. Then hastily slitting two or three trees so the place could be identified in event he should have opportunity to recover the treasure, he and his companions swam across and made their escape, finally reaching Natchitoches minus everything but the miserable mules they bestrode.

Tradition Gets Busy
As the years passed legend and tradition got busy. The abandonment of the treasure was in 1807, according to history. Some time between 1830 and 1840, according to a statement made by Dr. John M. Sparks, who for many years had lived at Nacogdoches, he got hold of an old map, which he conceived to be the key to the buried treasure of Walter Parling. He and some friends decided to give their secret a good test. With negro laborers, the Attoyaque bayou in the vicinity of the old crossing and after locating several trees with peculiar and aged marks, they proceeded to get busy. The stream was dammed and its course diverted, and at a certain place and just below the dam, an excavation was made. At a considerable depth a Spanish pack saddle or remains of a Spanish pack saddle itself was found, but not a cent of the treasure itself was found. If indeed there ever was any treasure there, Dr. Sparks, however, was of the opinion that he had hit upon the very spot where Parling had abandoned his silver, and that it was so heavy it had sunk to unreachable depths in the sand during the long period in which it had rested in the bayou.

They had perfected, by means of an ancient secret which had been unearthed, an amateur could locate easily all buried treasure in the vicinity of where the rod was used and its use was very simple. The mineral rod was a small glass bottle, little larger than a common lead pencil and hardly as long, filled with nothing but steel particles, iron dust iron oxides and perhaps a few other worthless elements. This wonderful rod cost $50, and in many localities groups of men raked that amount together and sent for the fake outfit, which they used in visiting every or an old settled and abandoned place, where innumerable holes were dug in response to the pointing of the mineral rod, and in which not one cent was ever found.

All along the old San Antonio road

mineral rods have been used to locate traditional buried treasure. On the site of the old San Sabá mission, on the San Sabá river in Menard county, numbers of holes were pointed out as being the evidence of chronic money hunters, and in some instances the old mission wall had even been dynamited in the foolish search.

Another of the last strongholds of romance and adventure—India—begins succumbing to the steam roller, civilization. We like to think of India as a quaint jungle country of temples, tigers, buried jewels, and magic. But a trade report tells us that India already has 265 cotton mills, swarms of steel plants, a billion dollars worth of irrigation projects under way, and a growing network of government-owned railroads. This is "progress"—which makes the world duller.

Society Interested In Two Weddings of Note For the Coming Week

WEDDINGS, weddings! Wedding bells have been ringing continuously the past few weeks, for hardly a week has passed during the early summer season in which a wedding is not recorded in the annals of society. June had its usual number of weddings to witness and July promises to be a month much favored by pretty brides who do not prefer Dan Cupid's chosen month.

Brides-to-be will have the right of way from now on until the close of July or later, there being several weddings listed for the mid-summer season, and each bride-elect being extensively entertained.

Society is interested in the two weddings scheduled to take place this week: that of Miss Clara Repschlaeger and Mr. H. Claude Holmes which will be an event of Wednesday; and the wedding of Miss Alma Maude Smith and Mr. Edward S. Harrison which will be solemnized on Thursday.

The Repschlaeger-Holmes wedding will be a simple but charming affair, taking place at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Repschlaeger, 1210 Seventh street, at 4 o'clock Wednesday afternoon.

The home will be in attractive adornment for the pretty wedding, with a profusion of summer flowers, and green foliage forming a lovely background for the impressive ceremony.

Miss Repschlaeger's bridesmaid will be of white tulle with delicate touches of ribbon trimmings and she will carry a bouquet of lovely roses and lilies-of-the-valley. She will be given in marriage by her father.

Miss Gladys Garrett, who will be the bride's only attendant, will wear an adorable frock of lavender organza trimmed with ribbons of pastel shades. W. H. McCorkle will be best man.

Miss Gertrude Amburn, the bride-elect's niece, will render a program of vocal music and Miss Gladys Allen will sing "I Love You Truly." Miss Allen will wear a dainty white organza frock.

A reception will be held after the wedding, ceremony, following, which the young couple will make a wedding tour of Houston, San Antonio and Loeville, at the latter place visiting Mr. Holmes' parents.

The popularity of the young couple is evidenced by the many beautiful presents being received from their many friends and by the pre-nuptial affairs being given for Miss Repschlaeger. Miss Repschlaeger was reared in Port Arthur; is an accomplished musician and of magnetic personality. Mr. Holmes is well known here. He is an employee of the Gulf Refining company.

Upon their return to Port Arthur, they will make their home at 1210 Seventh street, where an attractive furnished apartment awaits them.

MISS SMITH will become Mr. Harrison's bride at 4 o'clock Thursday afternoon at an elaborate church wedding at which Rev. J. A. Frampton will read the impressive Episcopal service.

The church will be in lovely bridal adornment for the occasion, with tall palms and beautiful white blossoms placed in effective arrangement about the altar and aisles.

The bride's bridesmaid will be given by Mr. A. M. Culpepper, and the bride's brother-in-law, Mr. W. D. Armstrong, will sing "At Dawning" preceding the entrance of the bride's party.

The bride, who will be given in marriage by her father, will be attired in a beautiful gown of white tulle and will carry a bouquet of white roses and lilies.

Miss Dovey Smith, her sister, will be the maid of honor and will be gowned in pink and blue Paisley chiffon frock with a corsage of sweet peas of harmonizing shades.

Following the ceremony and congratulations, a reception will be held at the Smith home, 2840 Sixth street, and will be attended by the bride's party and a group of intimate friends of the young couple. About one hundred guests will attend the wedding.

After an extended honeymoon trip to Houston, Galveston, San Antonio and other Texas points, Mr. Harrison and his bride will return to Port Arthur at 2840 Sixth street.

The wedding is of wide interest to Port Arthur friends on account of the popularity of the bride-elect. Miss Smith was a member of the 1923 graduating class of the Port Arthur High school and has been reared in Port Arthur. She is a charming young woman and endeavored herself to a host of friends during her school days. Mr. Harrison is an employee of the Gulf Refining company.

Mr. Harrison's father, Edward S. Harrison, Sr., and his sister, Miss Emily Harrison, of Philadelphia, have arrived in the city to attend the wedding. While here they are guests at the Smith home.

SHOWERS for the two attractive brides-elect, later mingled with charming affairs for out-of-town visitors and Port Arthurians who have soon for the summer months, have featured the social calendar for the past week with probably the most delightfully arranged entertainment, comprising the charming house guest of her sister, Mrs. P. N. Rogers, and Miss Clara Repschlaeger, pretty bride-elect, with Miss Alma Maude Smith and Gladys Garrett and Mrs. Henry P. Foote as bridesmaids at the latter's home, 1236 Ninth street.

The affair carried in appointments the charm of a summer-time theme and was of the most delightful nature which the guests enjoyed.

IF THESE TWINS TAUGHT IN ONE SCHOOL—

Children Would Have More Trouble Picking Their Teachers Than Learning Their Lessons

By NEA Service

SAN ANGELO, Texas, July 7.

The school children of Tom Green county, Texas, are lucky.

For eight of their teachers comprise four sets of twins, yet in not a single of the county's rural schools did a pair of the twins teach together. They are known as the Fisks, the Browns, the Whites, and the Ritters.

Imagine the confusion if all the four sets of twins taught in one consolidated school, for instance. Most of them are so similar in features that the boys and girls would have a greater struggle trying to solve the puzzle of the twins than the hardest problem in algebra.

In only one case, however, would the girls be sure to come right. That is in the recognition of Miss Zella Ritter in her sister, Vada. Zella wears glasses and Vada doesn't. But their mien often goes to the wrong sister, their names are so similar. Zella and Zella White have a like experience.

she sailed Saturday for Derby, England, where she will spend the summer months with relatives and friends.

MAN, 60, KILLS HIS WIFE, 17

Shoots Her to Death in Kentucky Store

LEXINGTON, Ky., July 7.—After shooting to death his young wife and seriously wounding her mother, a neighbor, at Jackson, Ky., east of here, Charles Bryant, 60 years old, was overpowered by bystanders and lodged in jail, where he is being held without bail, pending his examining trial.

Crased from drinking moonshine whisky, according to witnesses Bryant went to his home, where he is said to have beaten his 17-year-old wife and terrorized their two small children. A half hour later, Mrs. Bryant went to a nearby grocery and while there told Walker Robinson, proprietor of the grocery, and Sam Lyon, who was in the store, how her husband had treated her.

She had hardly finished her story when Bryant entered the store, pig-stick in hand, and opened fire on her. One bullet pierced her body below the heart and emerged at the middle of her back. Bryant then turned his weapon on Lyon, who was sitting in a chair behind the counter. Lyon was shot three times—twice through the abdomen and once in the arm. His condition is regarded as serious.

What prompted Bryant, other than temporary insanity caused by imbibing too freely of moonshine whisky to murder his young wife and attack Lyon, is a mystery to Jackson citizens acquainted with the principals. Bryant, according to witnesses, made no accusation against his wife and Lyon or said anything coherent when shooting his victims in Robinson's store. Lyon, who is single and employed by the Louisville & Nashville railroad company, is a cousin of Robinson, proprietor of the grocery, and was one of few who remained in the store when Bryant appeared.

Vamping of Today Is a Business, Says This Blonde, Who Is Now Making Good as One

De Sacin Mooers

By MARIAN HALE

NEW YORK, July 7.—Perhaps you thought vamps operated almost exclusively in movies or in high society.

If so, let De Sacin Mooers, movie favorite, correct your impression. The vamp of today, she says, is in business. And she's making good.

"Vamping," she informed me, "is a recognized profession in the business world. You find the siren employed by large commercial establishments, in banks and in big corporations—wherever it is necessary for engineer deals that require finesse in getting some man from his money. That's where women's generation of training may be put to account."

The new type of vamp doesn't pass. Instead she gets richly paid for her services, it seems.

"The business vamp of today," my informant went on, "is not the conventional wren—a loud enheartened who begins to ogle as soon as she sees a man, and hence puts him on his guard. She is almost exclusively the blond type.

Ah, Those Eyes!

The blond is more subtly appealing. No one ever looks quite what deep-eyed schemers are being hatched behind her calm, laughing eyes. She is the northern type, you know, coming from a race that has had to fight hard for its existence. She doesn't expect to get by on sex alone.

"The brunet, too, is usually more selfish than the blond—she will vamp for what she can get out of it herself, but a blond will campaign for the sake of someone else."

De Sacin Mooers, owner of the famous Yellow Aster gold mine of Handburg, Cal., is a blond herself. She gained all this information about vamps while preparing for her role of the blond vamp in "Potash and Perlmutter," which is now being filmed.

HYPNOTIC EYE TORTURED WIFE

So She Wins Decree From Staring Mate

LOS ANGELES, July 7.—How a modern Svengali, with a hypnotic eye, drove his wife to a nervous breakdown was told in Judge Hardy's court when Mrs. Grace Evelyn Skillman was granted a divorce from Edmund Albert Skillman.

The wife testified that Skillman would sit and stare at her for hours in silence, the only sound he uttered being a deep rumble from his throat. This would, he varied, send a shiver down the man biting his nails and running his fingers down his throat.

Explaining her idea as to the cause of her husband's action, Mrs. Skillman said:

"I used to sit and try to talk to him, but he would just sit and stare at me, but he would keep right on doing it until he made me so nervous I could have screamed."

"He read books about hypnotism and I think he used to practice it on me. The book which I read a little, said one could see how easy it was by practicing it on a dog or cat."

Among the books Skillman used to read, according to the wife's mother, who testified in her daughter's behalf, were "The Magnetic Eye" and "Hypnotism."

Granting the wife's decree, Judge Hardy said:

"I have heard of many instances of mistreatment of wives by their husbands, but this is a new one on me."

Nebraska Girl Testifies For Father Who Shot Husband

Despite Daughter's Evidence Doctor is Sentenced to 13 Years for Second Degree Murder

HASTINGS, Neb., July 7.—Forced to choose between espousing the cause of her dead husband, Charles L. Gordon, and her living father, Dr. Charles L. Egbert, who was on trial for having killed him, Mrs. Gordon elected to testify for the latter. She was present at the killing and told the jury that it was an accident.

Finds 7-Inch Brier Pipe In Stomach of Rockfish

SEAFORD, Del., July 7.—Postmaster C. W. Jefferson of Seaford, Md., in cleaning a five-pound rockfish found a seven and a half inch French brier pipe two-thirds full of tobacco.

Amazed, he called several friends in to see the curiosity. It is a common occurrence to find smaller fish in the stomachs of larger ones, but the postmaster and his friends are at a loss to know just how the rockfish happened to have the pipe in its stomach.

FAMOUS SHOW MARE DIES STILL UNDEFEATED

3 YEARS IS GIVEN BANKER'S KILLER

South Dakotan Pleads Guilty To Holdup

SIOUX FALLS, S. D., July 7.—The sentencing in the Roberts county circuit court of John Danielson, a farmer, to a term of five years in the state penitentiary in Sioux Falls on his plea of guilty to a charge of being an accessory to the murder of Ray Stapleton, assistant cashier of the Corona State bank at Corona, S. D., adds another chapter to one of the most interesting cases of the kind in the history of South Dakota. Stapleton lost his life on February 7, 1921, during a daylight robbery of the bank.

The bank robbers went from Marvin, a small town near Corona, to Corona, riding in an automobile with a peculiar tread tire on one of the rear wheels. By means of the peculiar tread tire the car was trailed to the garage in Marvin conducted by Martin Lee. It was only a few weeks ago that the authorities were able to obtain the evidence necessary to make arrests and Lee and Danielson were taken into custody on the charges of being implicated in the murder of Stapleton.

Lee was convicted in the Roberts county circuit court, following a prolonged and sensational trial. It was not shown that he had a hand in the actual killing of Stapleton, but that the car used by the robbers belonged to him and was driven back to his garage after the bank holdup, robbery and murder.

On motion of Lee's attorney, sentence in his case has been postponed until July 21, at which time a motion for a new trial will be made, and, if denied, the case of Lee will be carried to the state supreme court.

According to a confession made by Danielson, the shot which killed Stapleton was fired by Ed ("George") Short, who is at present serving a term of five years in the federal penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kan., for the theft of a car in South Dakota, which he drove to Pennsylvania, where it was recovered.

Jackie's Kin

James P. Coogan, great-uncle of Jackie Coogan, has served the New York Central lines for 51 years, 46 of them as station master at Syracuse, N. Y. He is to be retired under the age limit rule. "Pop" Coogan is known to every official on the road and most of the regular travelers.

SEA LION GOES INLAND FOR FIGHT WITH DOGS

ILWACO, Wash., July 7.—A 400-pound sealion flipped his way 400 yards inland and spoiled 10 acres of cranberries before being discovered and slain. Awakened by furious barking of dogs behind his house, Angus Mellon went out to see the sealion sparring with the dogs. The dogs had chased the sealion over a newly planted bog and the cranberry plants were flattened. Mellon shot the sealion and spent several hours digging a hole big enough to bury the carcass.

Wireless Time Slow Tests in Britain Show

LONDON, July 7.—Wireless time signals are received at Greenwich from France, Germany, Russia and America, and automatically recorded, and the comparisons of these with the actual Greenwich mean time show that they are usually slow, but rarely by more than one-tenth of a second. Big Ben sent a noon wireless time signal to Greenwich on 293 days last year, and its error was less than one second on 203 days, which entitles it to claim to be the most reliable public clock in the world, since, unlike other clocks electrically connected with the observatory, the Westminster clock is not corrected daily.

These facts were disclosed at the annual visitation to Greenwich observatory by the Royal Society recently, when Sir Frank Dyson, the astronomer royal, was able to report to the board of visitors that so far as the important observational work is concerned, it was last year practically up to pre-war efficiency.

BOOTLEGGERS' BADGES LEAD PROS TO PREY

DALLAS, Texas, July 7.—Badges for bootleggers in order that their patrons might distinguish them from the booze peddlers who handle an inferior grade of "liquid fire" are all the rage in this city now, according to a statement made here today by George Webb, federal prohibition agent.

Mr. Webb said that the badges, while protecting the customers, also aided officers to some extent, as that several arrests had been made as a result of seeing a "bootlegger's badge."

BIG BOUT PICTURES BAN TO BE ENFORCED

ATTORNEY DIES IN PISTOL DUEL

Farmer Fires 4 Bullets, Is Himself Wounded

LANCASTER, Ky., July 7.—James I. Hamilton, 62, former county attorney of Garrard county and one of the largest land owners in this section, was instantly killed in a pistol duel with Chel Pointer, 35, a tenant on Hamilton's farm.

Hamilton was hit four times, one shot piercing the heart and the other three being flesh wounds. Pointer was hit by one bullet, inflicting a flesh wound in the side. He went to a neighbor's house and called the sheriff's office after the shooting, which occurred on what is known as the Heasley farm. Sheriff James Robinson took Pointer into custody. He was lodged in jail and a charge of murder will be placed against him. His wound is not considered serious. Details of the shooting are unknown beyond the report that Hamilton and Pointer had a misunderstanding concerning something about the farm. They separated, but met later and the shooting began. The nearest witness was said to be more than 100 yards away and did not see the shooting until his attention was attracted by the first shots. He could not say who fired the first shot.

MAN'S ARM IS BADLY MANGLED IN THRESHER

PRATT, Kan., July 7.—The left arm of Jasper Underhill of Pawhuska, Okla., became entangled in a combination harvester-thresher on a farm near here, and it was necessary to amputate it.

Seizures of American Ships by Russ Brings Loss to Trader in Furs

SEATTLE, Wash., July 7.—Fur traders here and at Tacoma will lose several hundred thousand dollars as a result of Russian agents seizing the schooner Silver Wave, Jukun and Bopinda at East Cape, Siberia. The three vessels were fitted out on Puget Sound and carried cash with which to buy furs. According to local fur dealers, it is believed the furs were purchased and loaded before the ships were captured. Olaf Swenson, fur dealer, who has just returned from Siberia, reports that the Soviet authorities lately imposed a high export tax on Asiatic furs. To evade the tax, it is said, the American schooners planned to unload at a Siberian port then later to gather up the furs and sail for home. The furs which Russia has confiscated were to have been offered at auction in Seattle July 25.

DALLAS GHOST TURNS INTO PAJAMA GIRL

DALLAS, Texas, July 5.—Patrolman V. H. Key was suddenly confronted about 3 a. m. Thursday, with what appeared to be a ghost stalking its way jauntily along Jefferson avenue. The ghost-like appearance advanced steadily upon the officer, but when it got within clear vision range proved to be a young woman, barefooted and in silk pajamas, oblivious to her surroundings, sleep holding her under control. Key awakened her, but he brought on a fainting spell. When she recovered she gave her name and address. Key says he has forgotten the address she led him to.

Hang claims he is still president of China, but can't prove it.

TEST MUSTARD GAS ON RATTLES' DENS

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, July 7.—Mustard gas, phosgene and chlorine, deadly accompaniments of war, will be turned upon large dens of rattlesnakes in the vicinity of San Marcos, Texas, within the next few weeks. This announcement was made by Maj. George M. Halloran, chemical warfare of the Eighth Corps area, Fort Sam Houston, who will direct the use of the gases.

This experiment is to be made by special order of the chief of chemical warfare, Washington.

CANADA SELLS AUTOS TO FORTY-FOUR COUNTRIES

TORONTO, July 7.—Passenger automobiles made in Canada were exported to 44 different countries during the month of May. The total number exported was 5,427, valued at $1,893,211, as compared with 2,562, valued at $1,038,276, in the same month of 1932. Australia and Great Britain were the largest customers. For the 12 months ending with May of this year, exports were nearly three times as large in quantity and value as for the preceding period.

Prospector Ends Search For Gold After 69 Years

TORONTO, July 7.—Robert Holding recently wrote "finis" to his sixty-nine years search after gold when he sold an undeveloped claim in the West Shilling Tree district, North Ontario, to R. J. Fleming, of Toronto, for $55,000. During his quest after gold Mr. Holding, who is now 83 years old, has traveled over almost every country in the world, and was one of the four persons rescued when a ship was wrecked off the coast of Australia.

ROCK PRICE PAID FOR CLAY ROAD

Nebraska Governor Claims To Have Found Fraud

LINCOLN, Neb., July 7.—Gov. Bryan has launched his pay, under what he predicts will prove to be a widespread scandal, in connection with the building of federal aid roads in Nebraska, and says that if necessary he will demand a congressional investigation of the part played by government engineers and officials in the matter.

The governor says that he has discovered at least one case where both the state and federal government paid a rock price for a clay road. This is in Cherry county, which is almost as big as the state of Rhode Island. He says that the facts as they are reported to him are that the state road department asked for bids on constructing a road from Valentine, the county seat, to Ainsworth, county seat of the next adjoining county, about 60 miles apart.

Details of the transaction. When the bids were opened the lowest for the clay surfacing asked for was $1 a yard. The county commissioners, however, felt that this was too high, but in spite of that position the state highway department later let the contract to Peterson, Sherry & Guntel. Still later the contract was changed to provide for rock surfacing at $2.50 a yard, and because of this price the entire cost of the work was shoved up from $251,000 to $374,000.

As the governor tells the story the state department advanced to the contractor the proportion of the cost that the federal government was to pay, and when it came to collecting from the latter a snag was struck. The district federal engineer refused to recommend pay for a clay road at a rock price and there the matter hung with the state holding the sack when Gov. Bryan took charge of the state government. Cherry county citizens advised him of the circumstances and he got busy with the federal road department.

Attitude of Government. In the course of his inquiries he learned that the federal engineer was basing his refusal on the result of soil analysis made by a government chemist. He wired Secretary Wallace for a copy of the analysis as well as all records in the case after he had met with a refusal from the district engineer. Secretary Wallace was not in Washington, but his assistant wired the engineer to confer with the governor. With two days after this the federal department notified the state highway bureau that in view of the action of the federal engineer directly in charge of the work in approving portions of the project the government would pay its share on a rock basis.

"Here are the mysterious circumstances," said the governor. "The federal district engineer and the department at Washington had steadfastly refused to recognize this as other than a clay road for nearly two years, yet within two days after I warned the federal engineer, who conferred with me about the matter, the national government ordered payment on a rock basis. This is the face of a report from one of their own men that what the contract claimed was rock was merely a fine silicious clay."

Not Satisfied with Situation. "Somebody owes the state and the federal government money, and if I have to ask for a congressional investigation I am going to find out who it is. I am not satisfied with the situation as it now stands because after having paid for a rock surface I find no rock there, because a government chemist has held that what the contractors claim is rock is nothing but clay, and because I believe the payments in both instances were made under pressure from a source I have not yet discovered. It is not fair that either the state or the national government pay for rock when they are handed clay, when there is no rock there, no rock was needed and no rock desired."

MORALS TODAY GOOD AS EVER, CLAIMS TEACHER

MUNCIE, Ind., July 7.—Moral among boys and girls are as high at the present time as they were years ago, in the opinion of Mrs. Martha Ivens, who recently completed her fifth year of continuous school teaching here.

She said, however, that the American home may not now have the appeal it had a half century ago.

COP QUILTS JOB; WON'T KILL DOG

Terrier's Appealing Eyes Too Much for Officer

CHICAGO, July 7.—"Tip" was just a good natured, fat, terrier of doubtful parentage.

If he'd been a human being you'd have called him a "bum" and a restless, happy-go-lucky rover.

The spirit of wanderlust caused Tip to flip an outgoing freight car in Chicago a year ago. At West Chicago he jumped off, looked over the town, and decided to honor it with his future residence.

The first place he hit was the police station. His appealing eyes and the persistent wag of that bewitching tail made him the friend of every bluecoat.

When the cops treated him abruptly, Tip went the rounds of the homes, staying a night here, another there—welcoming everywhere he went.

Tip became sick with a mysterious, incurable disease. The mayor told Chief of Police Joseph Gardner to shoot the animal.

The chief told, Night Marshal Adolph Haack to perform the executioner's task.

"Me shoot that dog?" Haack exclaimed. "I should say not. He's everybody's pal. I'll quit first."

"The mayor's orders," the chief explained lamely. He liked Tip, Man's the night they watched him do his tricks.

"I don't care," Haack retorted. "I quit."

So he did. And Chief Gardner, who took Tip in and gave him a pillow in a corner of the station, shot him and deprived West Chicago of its lovable and trusting four-footed hobo.

Yellow and Black New Cleveland Color Plan

CLEVELAND, July 7.—Mayor F. Kohler rapidly is turning Cleveland into a city of yellow and black, by adopting these two colors in painting much of the city-owned property. The two colors have been used extensively in repainting traffic signals, waste cans and paper containers, park benches and other park property, including refreshment stands, boat houses, lockers and bathing beach property and stands and club houses at the municipal golf course. The color scheme is worked out by using vivid yellow for surface, painting and black for trimming.

Auto Body Building Principles of Modern Usage Same as Those in Middle Ages

ENGLISH LIKE NOISY MOTORS

Americans Demand a Quiet Car

Motor body construction which to the eye has changed enormously in a decade, in reality has changed but little in several hundred years as far as the principles of body framing and bracing are concerned. Methods of manufacture, of course, have vastly improved and thoroughly modernized, in America at least, to meet the demands of large scale production; appearance has been so altered that beauty, durability and utility for all types of services, are well combined; but the raw frame of a motor car body built today, and the skeleton of a king's coach of the middle ages would easily pass for blood kin, in virtually all details of construction.

This is the statement of a Buick official who has just returned from two months in Europe, during which time he visited the Paris and London automobile shows and the factories of leading motor car manufacturers and coach builders in England, France and Belgium. He also visited the museums which hold the finest examples of coach work.

COACH BUILDING PRINCIPLES COME FROM MIDDLE AGES

In the Palace of Kings in Versailles, he made a close inspection of a gorgeously appointed vehicle used in the coronation ceremonies of French kings in the middle ages, and again brought to use by Napoleon upon the occasion of his marriage to Josephine. This carriage is ornamented with solid gold. Hand-carved figures adorn the top. The harness is of gold. Genuine tapestry is used throughout for upholstery. Paintings are on the side panels, done by the leading artists of the day. Yet the frame work of the real affair, built centuries ago, is no different than is to be found in a high-grade car body of approved construction.

European builders are not in position to avail themselves of the advantages of large scale production in body building. They have neither the equipment nor the manufacturing system. They build today in about the same manner that specially designed jobs are manufactured here—a slow, costly system that is being rapidly displaced in this country by modern machinery and methods.

The present demand for cars of the closed type in France has not advanced in the same proportion that it has in the United States, the official reports. Open cars, or "closed cars of the collapsible type," are the most popular. The demand for closed cars is increasing, but principally for cars of the landaulet type.

AMERICA DEMANDS QUIET OPERATION

In no country, he claims, are motorists so exacting in their demands for quiet operation as here. He relates the story of a trip with an English motorist who was driving a large, expensive car of foreign make. "That car was unusual," he said. "The axle was hollow. Perhaps he was sincere in his statement, and perhaps that is why European makes are not particularly quiet. But the fact that Americans demand quiet operation has resulted in their getting it. We can undoubtedly learn from Europe, and it is just as true that Europe can learn from us."

FRANCE ALSO HAS ITS SUGAR BARONS

PARIS, July 7.—Beet sugar farmers of France made a profit of 2,000,000 francs ($125,000) on their crops in the last three years, and sugar refiners made a profit of 520,000,000 francs ($32,500,000) during the same period in refining this sugar, according to an investigation of the French ministry of agriculture.

In 1922 and 1923 the refiners made a profit of 219 per cent upon their capital, and the previous year they made a profit of 315 per cent.

The report adds that the refiners also made a profit upon speculation in sugar, which cannot be traced.

WASHINGTON HEN LAYS 2500 EGGS

PYRALIS, Wash., July 7.—A 12 year old white leghorn hen this week laid her 2,500th egg. Three times the age when most hens are considered too old for laying and too tough to cook, this birdy will make a record of over 200 eggs this season. Besides operating her egg factory, she has hatched many broods of chicks, submitted to having her nearly spurs manicured numerous times, and afflicted by clipped wings on eight different occasions. This valued hen belongs to Joel Tonkin, a Stock river rancher.

PAPER RUBLES NET $35,000,000 IN GOLD

RIGA, July 7.—The only paying industry in Russia today under government ownership is the manufacturing of rubles, according to a report of Finance Minister Sokolnikov, at a meeting of the Moscow soviet. M. Sokolnikov states that the ruble output has brought the government 70,000,000 gold rubles ($35,000,000), an income ten times greater than expected.

Look Sharp—Be a Good Sport If You Drive in Bad Weather

Look sharp. Keep "within your brakes" and be a good sport. This is the sum and substance of careful driving. The following hints should help the driver to attain the highest degree of caution:

1. Shun plus a surfboard road form a super-kicker combination. Keep your car well under control so that you will not have to depend on your brakes to bring you to a stop.
2. It is almost impossible to "listen" to a grade crossing when riding in a closed car with the windows shut. Therefore, your eyes must do double duty. See that the tracks are clear in both directions before you attempt to cross.
3. Trains and trolley cars are deadly. Failure to take every precaution at the grade crossing may be punishable by death.
4. The roadhog is with us twelve months of the year. If he tries to take more than his share of the highway, don't stand too firmly on your rights. There's a lot of bootleg looch around and he may be carrying some inside him.
5. Keep a couple of extra bulbs on hand in case of a burnout. Adjust your lights so they won't blind the other fellow.
6. A Connecticut judge has ruled that failure to see a person does not relieve you of the responsibility for his death or injury. If rain, fog or glare from an approaching automobile makes it impossible to see more than a few feet ahead, reduce your speed.

What makes the wheels go around? Has been the question of many a small boy before attacking some mechanism which presented a complicated problem to his small brain.

The same question changed a little keeps an expert jury continually testing and probing. That question is "How can we keep the wheels going longer and at less expense?"

The jury is not made up of merely 12 good men and true, but of hundreds of experienced automotive engineers looking out always to better the various products they are working on. Practically every day at least one of these experts find a way to save a few cents or a few dollars on some part of the automobile without sacrificing quality and durability.

The jury for years has agreed almost unanimously on one important part of the motor car, the part which has come to be known as the heart of the car, the storage battery.

Gene Rayburn, Port Arthur battery dealer, is authority for the statement that the endurance of 140 leading car manufacturers have specified and are using Willard threaded rod batteries as original equipment.

"They use these batteries—and pay more for them—because they have tested them a long time and know from experience that these batteries and Willard service mean a degree of car-owner satisfaction which cannot be obtained with any other make of battery," he said.

"Ninety-three per cent of these car manufacturers have always used Willard. Considering the fact that the best batteries for starting and lighting were supplied as original equipment to car-builders in 1912, this stands as a record practically without an equal in the industry."

"The jury that has rendered this verdict is one that must be constantly kept satisfied and one that would quickly reverse its opinion upon the slightest failure in quality of product or service. This business was won and has been held only because Willard has always been able to offset competition based mainly on price, by better quality, by experienced and capable engineering co-operation with the car builders and by the most efficient and widespread service to the car-owners."

"It is one of the reasons why the majority of Willard owners would never think of replacing their batteries with any but Willard."

PROPER RINGS PEPS UP MOTOR

4400 Sizes Meet Every Demand

In no branch of the automotive industry is the necessity for service so great as in the piston ring field. Over-size rings may be demanded in any of 40 or more different over-sizes—over-size in diameter and width.

To render this service there is constantly carried in the McQuay-Norris stock rooms 4400 different sizes and over-sizes of rings ranging up to 30 inches in diameter. And when over-sizes so unusual that they cannot be anticipated and carried in stock are needed, a special manufacturing department produces them in 24 hours.

To be sure, the number of 250 in all sections of the United States, carry complete jobbing stocks of McQuay-Norris piston rings in all of the generally used sizes and over-sizes, supplying them in turn to more than 1000 service stocks through which repairmen, dealers and car owners are given service.

The McQuay-Norris piston rings are handled in Port Arthur by the Philip Inman & Co., 625 Procter, Chevrolet dealers.

Tinner Flees from Bees; $100,000 Fire Is Result

GLASTONBURY, Conn., July 7.—A large farmhouse on the dairy farm known as "Folly Farm" in East Westgate was burned, with an estimated damage of $100,000.

The fire started after a tinner working on the roof had been attacked by a swarm of yellow jackets. He descended hurriedly, leaving a blow torch on in the room, which overturned.

More than $1,000,000,000 of waste material is salvaged each year in this country.

Ruins of a city, believed to be at least 4000 years old, have been discovered in Mexico by a Scottish mining engineer.

MOTORIST CAN FOIL ROBBERS

Accessory Lock Solution to Problem

Increased thefts of motor cars and accessories have brought the motorist to realize that he must take extra precaution with his machine and its equipment. As rapidly as the number of cars has increased during the past years, the number of thefts has increased even more rapidly.

"Is this cleverness on the part of the thief or carelessness on the part of the motorist? Although the car owners cannot entirely eliminate this menace he can certainly do something toward protecting his car and its fittings."

The average motorist would not think of leaving his house without first locking it securely. Yet he will drive up in front of a business establishment and leave his car, without even locking the ignition switch, to say nothing of the accessories on his car, or the coats or robes that are left in it.

There are a number of types of locks on the market today that aid in foiling the thief, but most of these locks can be used only for the one purpose for which they were originally intended. However, there are devices that may be used as general all-around locks for the car. Necessary for locks that would protect robes, from being stolen and the need has been answered. The uses of such locks are varied; they may be used for securing suitcases or hand grips to the steering wheel or foot rail, and they are often used as car locks by securely clamping the spark and key levers together to one of the spokes of the steering wheel. In this way the gas and quick control levers cannot be moved, neither can the steering wheel be turned.

Swedish Citizens Are Allowed Four Quarts Of Alcohol a Month

STOCKHOLM, July 7.—It doesn't need a Volstead law to create a rum running fleet. Sweden has just found that out.

Sweden is getting along more or less on a temperance law limiting each able bodied person up to four quarts of alcohol a month, and all he can drink when he buys meals in a restaurant. The restaurants are crowded.

With Germany, very much thanks to its agrarian policy introduced by Food Minister Herries, overflowing with potatoes, manufacture of alcohol at nothing or next to nothing a gallon, is possible.

Result: Rum fleet off Stockholm.

Every day when the weather is good and police aren't about, the German alcohol fleet comes off the Swedish coast to meet motor boats from Stockholm.

Many stories are told of boys getting rich and paying off the mortgage on the old homestead and saving the brothers from going to America to work in a lumber camp. One boy of 16, going partners with another of 17, rented a motor boat and made enough from one run running trip to buy two motor boats. Being wise beyond their years, they registered the motor boats in the names of women members of the family. One of them got caught and was sent up for three months, but the maximum penalty, but the authorities could not take his boat away. After he was freed he made $3000 in one month.

KNOW THE CAR. N. A. D. A. ADVICE

Guess Work in Used Car Deals Costs Money

Guesswork in the buying and selling of old automobiles has been the chief factor in the losses suffered by automobile dealers through many years, says E. P. Baker, Dodge Brothers dealer, one of a thousand members, National Automobile Dealers' association. He asserts also that the result of the N. A. D. A. educational campaign is only beginning to show and that he has information from the N. A. D. A. headquarters in St. Louis which tends to promise that in the second quarter of 1923 the automobile dealers have made a substantial reduction in their losses. In the first quarter of the year the N. A. D. A. reported $23,000,000 losses suffered by the dealers in their handling of used cars.

"The public has responded wonderfully to the N. A. D. A. program of applying a standard of measurement to the automobile business by which the buyers can select for themselves the dealers in whom they can have complete confidence. The public has accepted the assertions made by the N. A. D. A. that the dealers cannot pay high prices for automobiles, sell them at a loss and remain in business to give the owners of cars the high class and satisfactory maintenance attention that the automobile owners want."

"The national association and its members have been using every effort to merchandise automobiles on a sound basis and to eliminate guesswork from the business of arriving at the amount of value remaining in the old car when it is considered in a trade. The program of the national association which is stabilizing the automobile business and the automobile owner will reap the benefits from this as well as the dealers. It is making it possible for the automobile buyers to eliminate the guesswork from their buying."

FORD DEMAND GROWS IN JULY

Banner Month Seen for Cars and Trucks

DETROIT, Mich., July 7.—The general prosperity now existing throughout the country is strikingly reflected in the demand for Ford cars and trucks.

The company's huge manufacturing facilities are being utilized to the utmost in an endeavor to increase the daily output so that dealer's orders may be filled as quickly as possible.

The proportion of increase in the demand for Ford products is about equally divided between commercial centers and rural communities, reflecting not only better conditions in the cities, but likewise a growth of prosperity among the farmers.

A feature of the dealer requirements is the large number of Ford one-ton trucks. Sales of Ford trucks have been mounting every month this year, establishing new high marks and July promises to bring another record breaker. While business concerns everywhere are daily turning to the use of the Ford truck in increasing numbers, the sales records also show that farmers are availing themselves of the advantages and economy of motor truck transportation to a greater extent than ever before.

2 GO INTO WOODS TO FIGHT FATAL DUEL

WOBBURN, Mass., July 7.—Lungo, of Arlington, is in a hospital with bullet wounds in the neck, shoulder and head and Ara Lancelotti, of the same address in Arlington, is dead in a grove in Hurlington, the result, police say, of a duel staged by the two men.

Both men left Arlington on bicycles and rode to the woods near the T. I. Steel plant in Hurlington. They fought there, it is believed, and Lancelotti, leaving Lancelotti on the ground, staggered to a nearby house, which happened to be that of a physician.

How much mileage did you expect to buy, when you bought your automobile?

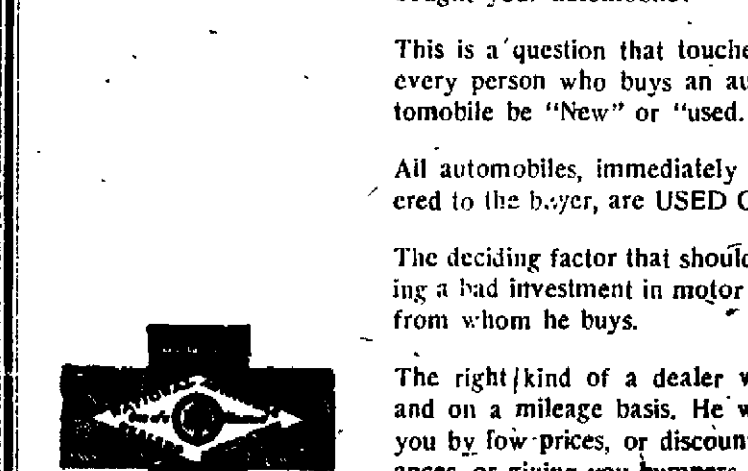

This is a question that touches a fundamental point for every person who buys an automobile whether that automobile be "New" or "used."

All automobiles, immediately that they have been delivered to the buyer, are USED CARS.

The deciding factor that should prevent a man from making a bad investment in motor transportation is the dealer from whom he buys.

The right kind of a dealer will sell you transportation and on a mileage basis. He will not attempt to deceive you by low prices, or discounts, or long trading—allowances, or giving you bumpers, or other accessories. ## PRISONED VETS ARE ABNORMAL

Suffer from Service Disabilities, Claim

MADISON, Wis., July 7. — On facts reported by experts from personal examinations into the mental and physical condition of 200 veterans of the World War in three Wisconsin state penal institutions, Governor John J. Blaine has started an attempt to have similar investigations carried out in other states of the union.

Sixty per cent of these ex-soldier inmates were mentally abnormal, Dr. William F. Lorena, director of the state psychiatric institute, and W. S. Middleton, university surgeon and chest specialist, reported.

More than 20 per cent were suffering from disabilities traceable to their military service.

Gov. Blaine appealed to Attorney General Daugherty to have such a survey conducted for all ex-servicemen in federal prisons, but Daugherty refused, declaring there was no money available.

The American Legion has recommended the survey and commended it, and an executive committee of that body at Indianapolis recently adopted a resolution, urging similar surveys to be carried on in the states, and in federal prisons, covering the cases of all ex-servicemen.

Many Are Transferred

The report of the experts recommended that the ex-servicemen should be transferred to suitable institutions for treatment, that those having curable ailments should be given immediate treatment, and that efforts should be made to give vocational training commensurate with the mental ability. Gov. Blaine has used the information in causing many of the men examined to be transferred to suitable institutions, or pardoned for certain treatments.

"We believe that many of our findings apply to all prisoners," the experts said in their report. "It was also claimed that the poor experiences of the soldiers caused in many mental irresponsible minds a great disregard for property rights that landed the soldiers in jail after they got into 'tricks'."

"To help himself when in need was common practice, particularly overseas, and the property of organizations were commonly disregarded," the report said. "A shortage was made up by stealing from a nearby organization and not infrequently with the knowledge of commanding officers."

The report called attention to the large number of inmates of the Green Bay reformatory, who were convicted for stealing automobiles.

"Being hard up," or "economic stress," as the experts called it, was associated with the crimes for which the men were committed in 36 per cent of the total of 134 cases at the state prison at Waupun. In 26 per cent of the 51 cases at the reformatory at Green Bay, and 42 per cent of the 65 ex-soldiers at the house of correction at Milwaukee.

Physical disabilities which the experts thought could be traced to military service were found in 73 out of the total of 200 ex-soldiers.

Many Feeble-minded

At the reformatory 15 per cent of the men examined were classified as feeble-minded; at the house of correction 26 per cent; at the state prison 51 per cent.

In addition, 23 per cent at the reformatory, 23 per cent at the state prison, and 31 per cent at the house of correction were classified as "psychopathic personalities," most of whom were of the so-called incurable criminal type.

At the house of correction 65 per cent of the young ex-soldiers were unmarried; at the state prison 43 per cent. At the reformatory, where much younger men are jailed, 86 per cent were unmarried.

All the feeble-minded persons examined were found to have pleaded guilty and to have been sentenced without trial.

More than half gave histories of disrupted families during their childhood.

Alcoholism was blamed by 74 per cent of the inmates of the house of correction as being directly connected with their arrests and convictions; by 27 per cent at the state prison, and 18 per cent at the reformatory.

Two Drug Addicts

Only two drug addicts were found in the 200. Both were at the state prison.

One of the conditions that is keeping a number of the inmates in prison, the reports noted, was a $100 fee is required by a lawyer to get a pardon application before the governor. Many were found who were carefully saving their money until they could hire a lawyer to present their cases.

"In some instances this situation worked to the disadvantage of men who seemed, in our judgment, to be the most hopeful cases for reformation," the report said. "Most of these conditions can be remedied by full investigation of such cases and proper treatment for curable inmates."

POLICEMAN WAS A BLACKMAILER

Confesses Robberies, Denies 6 Memphis Murders

MEMPHIS, Tenn.—Like many other cities, both large and small, Memphis has its "Lovers' Lane," but just at present there's a "but," and it should be printed in bold-face capital letters—but it's dark and shadowed retreats are fast losing their attractions. Furtive pairs that like to stop between lamp-posts, or in the night shade of the sheltering pines, thus to escape the attention of the hawk-eyed officer on the noisy motorcycle, are just now content to do their spooling in midday's hot parlor or on the cooler back porch.

Six men and women have been shot to death along this city's "Lovers' Lane" and six others wounded since the beginning of the present year. The killed are:

W. "Obe" Spencer, 26, chain store manager.

Duncan Waller, 24, Mayfield, Ky., traveling salesman.

Mrs. Ruth McElwain Tucker, 21, Walker's companion.

Anthony Thomas, 27, a petrolman, shot to death while motoring with Mrs. Zehla Foster, an estranged wife.

James C. Simpson, 42.

All the shooting has been done with a .25-caliber automatic pistol.

Now, the range of time is important, Nov. 26 to May 24.

Suspect Blackmailing Cop

Since the first of the year a Memphis motorcycle policeman has extended a blackmail tribute from one after another of the anonymous couples stopping between the lamps. He has just signed an affidavit confessing twelve highway robberies and "Lovers' Lane" pay within the period of the murders.

He admits he once had a .25-caliber pistol for a short time, but denies ever firing it.

"My only threat to the couples I robbed was that I would reveal their identities or that I would arrest them if they did not come across," was the substance of the mounted traffic policeman's confession. "I shot no one."

His name is Ernest Johnson. He is 24, tall, of darkish complexion, newly married.

By day he regulated traffic in the "Lovers' Lane" district. At night he preyed upon the traffic he well knew of—and it is hinted that if his confession becomes public property it will shake a dozen downtown clubs to their centers.

He was not permitted to give out any names of his victims. However, one name did come out in his confession.

Nearly a score of business and professional men and women, including two divorcees, have been quizzed at detective headquarters after having been promised by police officials that their names would not be divulged.

Begged Not To Be Tried

Johnson begged that the ordeal of a trial be spared him, that he be permitted to plead guilty to highway robbery and take a compromise sentence of three years in the Tennessee penitentiary.

"I'm ready to go now and take my medicine," he said. "But don't implicate me in those killings. I had nothing to do with them."

His young wife proposes to establish an alibi for Johnson the nights of the murders. They have a 2-year-old baby and were married three years ago. She has declared she will stick to him to the last.

Research Shows That Taxi Meters Ticked Miles in Old Rome

The taxicab is now said to be the descendant of a metered chariot. It goes back to the days of gladiators, and of the gladiator that was Rome, according to recent research revelations.

The Romans knew the taxicab even before the time of Julius Caesar. How far beyond that it goes has not yet been found. But Vitruvius, described as the man who dedicated a classic volume on architecture to the Emperor Augustus, called the taxicab of those days, "an invention of some utility, one of the most ingenious things that we derive from the ancients."

This taxicab, with a meter like a salubrious glass, is now reconstructed by Phil Hale, literary and art critic of the Boston Herald. He described it as having been operated "by some contrivance by which a pebble was dropped into a bowl under the carriage for every 1000 paces traveled. At the end of the journey the driver counted the stones and thus arrived at the fare to be paid."

Scouting With —The— BOY SCOUTS

TROOP 3, SEA SCOUTS

We met at our ship last Tuesday night. After righting our skiff that had been upset when an oil tanker passed, Skipper Roy called the boys into the meeting. Coxswain Henry Larsson called the meeting to order. We repeated the scout oath in unison. When the roll call was called we found that only seven or eight members were present. Forty cents in dues were collected. None of the boys will be required to pay back dues as the boys present agreed on this.

Skipper Roy introduced a new officer of the Sea Scouts, Harry McCord, our first junior officer. The Sea Scouts were well pleased with Mr. McCord as first junior officer.

Skipper Roy told us that our sail boat was due to arrive at our ship on the Fourth. We are still waiting patiently for it to arrive. We shall soon have our 16-foot life boat on the canal bank ready for scraping and painting.

Crew 1 will have a crew meeting next Monday night. All boys in Crew 1 are requested to be present with their books and come prepared to pass tests. The six boys in the Sea Scouts who have passed the greatest number of tests will be allowed to learn to sail our sail boat. Skipper Roy announced that he would be glad to do anything before the Scoutmaster's association that the Sea Scouts brought up at a meeting.

WILLIAM JAMES, Yeoman.

TROOP 15

Troop 15 held a special meeting Monday night with Troops 6 and 17. The meeting was called to arrange final plans for the Fourth of July.

Mr. Daspit gave each boy two hours guard throughout the day and after a few more announcements "to the colors" was blown and the troops were dismissed. Troop 15 would not have a meeting Tuesday.

Scouts from Troop 15 were on guard Wednesday morning as early as six o'clock and they guarded throughout the day until 10 o'clock that night. Some of the scouts while not on guard duty sold confetti for the Red Cross.

Last Sunday our baseball team turned out to play Troop 6 but Troop 6's team did not all turn so two boys chose sides and we played ball for about an hour and a half.

Our team would like to get a game with some other troop and if any troop has a team who wishes a game please get in communication with some member of our troop right away.

RANDOLPH PATRICK, Scribe.

TROOP 6

Thursday night, June 28, Troop 6 had a fine swim at the Franklin pool. Everybody had a very good time. When we first entered the pool we had free play. After about 15 minutes we challenged Troop 17 who were in with us to a few water sports. First on the program was a relay race. We won this by a good yard. Allen Babbin was the under water swimmer. His record was 50 feet, having beat James Ballinger of Troop 17 by 28 feet. We did not stay long on account of the weather. Friday we did not have our regular meeting, instead we had a surprise. We were to take a message from Mr. Power's office at the Port Arthur college to the Scout hall. Troop 15 was to try and stop us. After 45 minutes the messenger was within a block of the hall but the bugle sounded and Troop 15 beat us but they were generous with their leniency.

Last Sunday our game with Troop 15 was postponed on account of the weather. We will play them this Friday night at 7:30 with 15 scouts present. You ought to see the wheels. Troop 6 is getting to be a regular bicycle troop. Everybody from Fatty to Raymond is getting a wheel.

Scouts, here's some good news. Saturday at 4 o'clock sharp we are to leave the Scout hall at Fifth and go to the beach. All scouts will be bringing a dollar to Scoutmaster Scott to buy the things to eat. We are going to Spinnell Top on an overnight bike. We will go to church in Beaumont in cars.

Here's some good news. The cart for the Pine Tree patrol has arrived and is being put together. That will mean more hikes in the future.

The board of examiners will meet next Friday so that our scouts out of a meeting. But another night will be decided upon as they have a surprise in store for us. Next Wednesday night we will have a swim in the Franklin pool. So, scouts, you see that there is a busy program ahead.

There was no test to be passed so Acting Senior Patrol Leader Walton Jameson closed the meeting with Howell's blowing "to the colors."

ACCUSE CARD SHARPS OF SWINDLING AT SEA

NEW YORK, July 7.—John S. McKee, described by himself as a speculator, but by police as a widely known card sharp, who several years ago was implicated in a deal in which Lord Rothschild of London, was swindled of $5000, was arrested yesterday at his home by Detective Sergeant Roddy and charged with grand larceny on the complaint of Daniel Rhodes of London, who said he lost $5000 to McKee and two other men in card games on the last voyage of the steam ship Aquitania.

After his arrival Rhodes went on business to Boston and told his lawyer of his losses. The lawyer advised him to report the matter to the New York police. Rhodes saw Inspector Coughlin and identified McKee's picture in a group of alleged card sharps.

McKee denied that he had swindled Rhodes. On the other hand, he said, he lost $151 to Rhodes, but had not thought of making a complaint because of it.

RELIEF WORK IS GRIEF WORK

American in Russia Narrates Trying Experiences

MOSCOW, Russia. — Continuing between Ufa and Orenburg, the two Asiatic frontier stations of the American Relief administration in Russia, must be about as pleasant as crossing Tibet in a kid-line, according to the report of his recent trip forwarded to Colonel William N. Haskell, director of the Russian Unit of the A. R. A., by T. Eagle Hartridge, whose American home is Jacksonville, Florida.

Hartridge is A. R. A. district supervisor at Orenburg, which last year was probably the worst famine spot in all of Russia. Recently he came to Moscow to report to Colonel Haskell on conditions in his district during a conference of district supervisors. The conference over, he started back to his station, normally a five-day journey by rail, on April 30. Arriving at Samara he found that one of the largest railroad bridges between Samara and Orenburg had been washed out by floods while he was in Moscow. Railroad authorities reported that it would be three weeks before transportation could be resumed.

By Horse and Hand Car

Hartridge immediately struck northeast for Ufa, a city in the foothills of the mountains several hundred miles to the north of Orenburg, the nearest point by rail to the latter city. Arriving there he was put up at the A. R. A. personnel house over night and preparations made for his onward journey south the next day. How he negotiated the dreary stages beyond the town of Teutsk, his first stopping place, he describes very vividly in his report.

"The next morning," Hartridge writes, "we started out on a hand car and covered 120 versts—as far as the road was good. From that point the railroad to Orensk was in bad shape, bridges washed out, and the remaining distance to Orensk was covered with horses—300 versts. Reached Orensk at 1 o'clock Sunday morning, having spent the entire night lost on the steps. Our drivers did not locate themselves until three in the morning and our final act of the night was to swim our horses across the river at Orensk. I was carrying two mail bags and was unmanageable by piling these bags on my personal baggage to keep them out of the water."

"It was pouring rain and freezing when we finally arrived at an alleged hotel, the Odesa, but any kind of shelter was grateful, so we put up there until the afternoon when we started out again, this time for Aktubinsk. We had expected to get a train at Orensk but luck was against us as, due to the floods, the road to Orenburg was not yet in operation. The distance to Aktubinsk is 150 versts and we reached there on Tuesday afternoon, catching a third class coach out at four the next morning and reaching Orenburg at five in the afternoon."

15 Days From Moscow

"We were fifteen days en route from Moscow, used 28 horses, did not have our clothes off for ten days, and for nine nights I averaged just three hours sleep per night. What sleep I did get was on the floor of filthy mud huts. To add to my pleasure my blanket roll was lost from the wagon carrying our supplies, leaving me with only one blanket I had been using for a robe. We were lucky to a disgusting degree and my body was one great ache."

"The board of examiners will meet next Friday so that our scouts out of a meeting. But another night will be decided upon as they have a surprise in store for us. Next Wednesday night we will have a swim in the Franklin pool. So, scouts, you see that there is a busy program ahead."

MUIR GLACIER FILLS UP BAY

Frozen River Breaks First Time in 10 Years

SEATTLE, Wash., July 7.—After lying peacefully asleep for more than 10 years, Muir Glacier, Southeastern Alaska, has awakened and lazily stretched itself. The big saxon in the life of the glacier showed off some gigantic icebergs, masses of the ice filling Glacier Bay to the exclusion of shipping. The great ice mass holds fair to remain floating for months, adding another spectacle to the northern scenery. None but a small band of nomadic Indians lives at Glacier Bay. None saw the glacier come to life and move but the huge ice wall is split in half and badly cut up by moraines. Immense blocks and piles of bluish ice hang over the edges.

Wolves often raise 13 pups, and usually hang around the doors of other large families.

LONG LIFE

In buying a motor car, consider what the cost will be when divided over a period of years.

What is the car's reputation for satisfactory service after the first year? After the second? And after the third—and fourth?

These considerations, in the final analysis, are the true basis of economy in motoring.

And it is this attribute of long life to which Dodge Brothers Motor Car owes its chief claim upon the unalterable loyalty of its owners.

The price of the Touring Car is $880 f. o. b. Detroit—$1010.00 delivered.

Research Shows That Taxi Meters Ticked Miles in Old Rome

The taxicab is now said to be the descendant of a metered chariot. It goes back to the days of gladiators, and of the gladiator that was Rome, according to recent research revelations.

The Romans knew the taxicab even before the time of Julius Caesar. How far beyond that it goes has not yet been found. But Vitruvius, described as the man who dedicated a classic volume on architecture to the Emperor Augustus, called the taxicab of those days, "an invention of some utility, one of the most ingenious things that we derive from the ancients."

This taxicab, with a meter like a salubrious glass, is now reconstructed by Phil Hale, literary and art critic of the Boston Herald. He described it as having been operated "by some contrivance by which a pebble was dropped into a bowl under the carriage for every 1000 paces traveled. At the end of the journey the driver counted the stones and thus arrived at the fare to be paid."

Citizens of Eldorado, the county seat, have been working for six months trying to get the county to improve the conditions of the home. The civic clubs have had special committees working to alleviate the condition of the county's unfortunate dependents. An effort was made to have the home removed to some place for the aged, but the commissioners refused to do this after the death of Haynes and the opening of the investigation by the state.

Commissioner Jones told a committee representing all of the civic clubs that he was not in favor of removing the place on the home. ### Traveler Brings Back Tales Of New Stampede

(This article is written by George T. Bye, following his return from Brazil, where he flew from New York in company with Pilot Walter Hinton in the seaplane Sambalo Corcoran II on an embassy of intercontinental friendship.)

By GEORGE T. BYE.

That a colossal storehouse of treasure awaits the key of commonplace enterprise, that the Andes are high mountains and the Amazon the greatest river in the world, that Brazil produces coffee and rubber and Chile has nitrate fields, that Ecuador has emeralds and Peru dazzling relics of the Incas, that the opera houses of Rio de Janeiro and Buenos Aires are grander than the one in Paris, that no skipper need to consider himself a sailor unless he had taken a wind-jammer around the Horn—

This was the limit of my South American lore before I tumbled down to Rio in the air. Of the West Indies I knew even less. Naked Negro boys dived for tourists' pennies in harbors, whose names escaped me. There were hurricanes in the West Indies, also, and bananas. A Pilot, late in Trinidad, told me. Police in Martinique, and many revelations everywhere, through which white-clad Yankee consuls with a devil-may-care grin on their lips and a tinkling glass in at least one hand, moved to words by O. Henry and Richard Harding Davis and music by G. M. Cohan.

Hunt Guiana's Diamonds.

I suspect the average man reading this has about the same impressions of the West Indies and South America today, unless he has read a few of the dispatches from landing places of the New York-to-Rio seaplane and thus caught flashlight glimpses of our obscure sister continent. He would have learned what 99 out of 100 Americans do not know, that Brazil grew from a Portuguese colony and that Portuguese is the republic's language, that it has an area greater than that of the 48 states of the United States, that its population of 33,000,000 exceeds the population of the rest of South America, and that treasure—

The reader is restless. He wants to know of the abundant treasure we heard about on our travels. Let us first get out, "Bonzanz! Eureka!" for the treasure was surely there. Treasure hunters were after it, many of them from the United States, and the authorities as a rule were disposed to invite many more treasure hunters to come along and help themselves and pay taxes. Unless the reader has an acute passion to get rich quickly he should stop reading at this point, for there will be no attempt to make the formulae romantic. Let the wealth seeker make up his mind what kind of treasure he prefers. A little gambling, a few dollars, a little planning and preparations, then a few months of mingled hardship and sport should bring the adventurer back to American a rich man.

Risk of Prospecting.

Is it diamonds you are after? The Guianas are your first stop, then Brazil for excursions into the interior. There has been a more or less authentic diamond rush in British Guiana for two years. A few months ago the rush was at its height, but then the rush was chiefly of buyers, the prospecting continuing to be black natives for the most part. A diamond rush is about to break out in Dutch Guiana. Diamond mining has been a Brazilian industry for years, and millions of dollars in carats have been produced. Our first impression of British Guiana's diamond rush was a glimpse at Georgetown's hundreds of fresh signs hung out from offices, stores and lodging houses: "Diamonds Bought Here, Best Prices Paid."

Prospecting in the British Guiana diamond fields, along the Mazaruni river, is accompanied with more risk than ordinary prospecting. The Mazaruni and Essequibo rivers, with their falls and rapids, have cost the lives of many prospectors already and many more will drown there unless they get better equipment. The only properly built boats on the Essequibo and Mazaruni are the launches of the Lavarre diamond syndicate. The rowboats of prospects cannot make the trip from Georgetown to the fields in less than six weeks, because of the numerous portages.

American in Control.

The Lavarre syndicate is the biggest operator in British Guiana. Most of its diamonds are acquired through purchases and trades. I understand, rather than in working fields. I was told by a British Guiana legislator that the Lavarre concern, which is American and headed by William Lavarre, Washington, D. C., pays the highest prices for diamonds in the British colony and that other diamond buyers were up in arms against Lavarre, as they foresaw not only that prices would be held up, but that in time Lavarre would practically control the fields. These other buyers, for the most part, are said to be New York pawnbrokers, or their sons or agents.

Lavarre's largest diamond was bought from two negro prospects, J. C. Stephens and S. P. Jackson, for $3000. It weighed 29 7/8 carats and was later exhibited on Fifth street. Stephens is the most prosperous prospector in Guiana. He found the large diamond and many others in the bed of a dry creek, called Atlas creek. The elaborate new home that Stephens built in Buxton, a half-inundated negro suburb of low-lying Georgetown, has an ornamental sign over its gallery reading "Atlas Creek."

Railway freight weighing 1,430,000 tons is hauled over United States highways each year.

The "Hope diamond" was purchased by Mrs. Edward B. McLean, of Washington, D. C., in 1909 for $150,000.

TIPS OFF POLICE

Ruth Norman, 18-year-old movie extra, who recently arrived in Hollywood from Chicago, has made a statement to Los Angeles police, they announce, which resulted in the arrest of a film director, an actor and a former detective in an alleged swindle plot. Wealthy business men were to have been the victims, according to her statement, officials say.

Six Business Houses Remain of Goldfield, Nev., Last and Once World's Greatest Gold Camp

TONAPAH, Nev., July 7.—Smoking ruins were all that was left of Goldfield, Nevada—the place where fortunes were made and fortunes lost; where Joe Gans and Battling Nelson fought for 40 rounds; the scene of the last great gold rush of the west.

Reports reaching here today by persons who have visited Goldfield and by refugees from the fire-stricken towns, showed that the place had been all but wiped out from the map. Six business houses were all that were left in the business district.

Woman Missing.
Aid was sent from Tonapah today—men to help clear the debris and search for a woman who was the only person reported missing and food for those who were burned out and to replace the stocks of stores which were destroyed.

But the real tragedy seemed to go beyond the story of a city burning and of tangible property destroyed, although such losses run around a million dollars.

The memories and the romance that clung around Goldfield's historic buildings gave the city a touch of atmosphere which can not be replaced even though modern structures are reared in the place of the hurriedly thrown together buildings, each the scene of a thousand comedies, tragedies and romances of the days when Goldfield was in its glory. The famous hotel where mines were sold a dozen times in a night and where fortunes were bet on anything from the turn of a card to which way a fly would jump and where Rex Rickard and Larry Sullivan and a dozen others past and present, of the sporting world, made sporting history, was one of the first buildings to burn.

Of late years Goldfield has been in a decline. It has dwindled from a city of 25,000 people—each, either with or seeking a fortune—to one of some 1500.

But the memories of the "old days" were still fresh.

WHAT'S GOING ON IN THE WORLD

By CHARLES F. STEWART,
NEA Service Writer.

The wet and dry contest looms larger daily, not only as a national issue—internationally as well. Dry leaders, meeting at Westerville, Ohio, discuss the rising tide of opposition to prohibition, recognized the question as likely to be the main one of the next presidential campaign.

Plans were made to spend $2,500,000 within the year in an effort to control coming legislatures, congress and the White House. Also the drys demanded use of the army and navy in an attempt to enforce prohibition, though Secretaries Weeks and Denby of war and navy declare this would be unconstitutional; likewise extension of the limit of America's territorial waters from 3 to 12 miles, whatever other countries may say.

The wetts are organizing to put every candidate on record, as wet or dry, concentrating on the election of wetts and the defeat of drys, regardless of all other considerations, as the drys have done so effectively in the past.

Though the wetts have not looked for Volstead law amendment before the next election, regarding the present national legislature as dry, as notable a political figure as Senator Coughlin predicts that 5 per cent beer, which he declares no more a stimulant than tea, coffee or tobacco, will be legalized at the coming session of congress.

NOT SATISFIED YET.

Liquor seizures from foreign ships haven't satisfied the drys at the government hoped they would. They want the ships seized, too. Unquestionably they're right, under a strict interpretation of the law.

Defunct Kansas Bank
May Be Reorganized

HUTCHINSON, Kans., July 7.—The Fourth State bank here, which closed its doors after Walter Grundy, president, disappeared, may be reorganized, directors of the institution announced today. Meeting of the stockholders to discuss reorganization will be held on July 17.

A state complaint, charging at least two violations of banking laws, was being drawn up for Grundy today, on orders of Carl J. Peterson, state bank commissioner. No information has been received as to the whereabouts of the missing president.

The British government has been asked already to join other European powers in adopting retaliatory laws against American ships in their waters.

Curzon promised that England never will agree to an extension of the limit of territorial waters from 3 to 12 miles.

HANDING ON TOUR.
President Harding, on his way to Alaska, rubbed it into the wetts again in his Denver speech. If the states won't enforce prohibition, he said, a use will be made "of the federal police authority which will come to be regarded as interference with the rights of local authorities"—a remark which brought, from many quarters, the answer that it's been so regarded for some time.

Further west the president claimed credit for a great economy record. In response, Democratic Chairman Hull referred to the president's figures as "grossly misleading, saying the republicans haven't paid debts as fast as the democrats did, or reduced taxes as much."

The president also suggested, rather than advocated, some sort of "co-operative organization of consumers" under "partial supervision of the federal government" to take up the slack in the spread of prices between producer and consumer.

The press speaks of it as a somewhat radical idea, though vague, as the president himself admits.

COERCING THE FRENCH

Stanley Baldwin, English premier, has determined to settle the Ruhr question, and reparations uncertainty and get Germany started toward recovery, whether France likes it or not.

His plans to call a conference on the subject, including England, France, Belgium, Italy, Portugal, Japan, America and maybe some more, and then, if France doesn't attend, to have the rest confer anyway. But he thinks France will come rather than have no voice in a discussion which will concern her so much. However, some diplomats believe she'll go it alone at any cost. In preference to letting Germany get on the upgrade again.

One suggestion is to have America agree that Germany shall assume continental Europe's debts to her—no rehabilitation program could be complete without a scheme for letting America's debtors out of paying what they owe.

NEW ERA OF WAR?
Premier Baldwin also announced British airship building plans for defense against "the strongest foreign air power within striking distance."

He means France, of course. Labor members of parliament proclaimed their opposition immediately, calling the program "the preface to a new era of war."

Anyway the press everywhere accents it as the "Anglo-French entente's" finish.

Motion Picture Reel to Be Shown at Christian Church at 8 Tonight

"The Big Fight" is the title of the one-reel motion picture that will be shown at the First Christian church Sunday night at 8 o'clock.

These motion picture reels will be shown every Sunday night until further notice. Rev. William Oeschger, pastor of the church, announced.

The reels present great Bible themes, dramas, travels, customs, ruins of ancient times, World War battle scenes, as well as studies of human interest. Rev. Oeschger said.

Sunday night, July 15, the "Temptation" will be shown, and on July 29 "A Spanish Bull Fight" will be exhibited to example how depraved a civilization may become that has no regard for Sunday and the word of God, Rev. Oeschger said.

HIGHWAY CHIEF REFUSES BLAME

Charges State Official Slip- ped in Not Calling Election

WACO, Texas, July 7.—Failure to advertise the election on the constitutional highway amendment, ruled by the attorney general today as making that election, scheduled for July 28, null and void, is no fault of the Texas Highway Association or of the state highway department, said W. V. Crawford, president of the State Highway Association, when he had read the attorney general's ruling.

Fixed by Legislature.
"If the provisions of the law have not been complied with it is not the fault of the members of the government charged with carrying out the mandates of the legislature," Mr. Crawford stated. "The date of the election was fixed by the legislature for July 28, and it was the duty of somebody in official position to track the law."

Mr. Crawford said that the meeting of the Texas Highway Association Monday and Tuesday would in no wise be affected by later developments; that the program would be carried out as scheduled.

To Confer on Emergency.
Men prominent in the Texas Highway Association, in the legislature and in other activities, have been urged by wire to attend the meeting at San Antonio, said Crawford, where it is expected to consider ways and means to meet the emergency, which has arisen. Acting Governor Davidson is among those who have been urged to be present.

EUROPE COMING BACK

Agriculture in Europe has made much more progress than industry toward restoration of normal condition. This is the conclusion of a specialist in marketing for the United States department of agriculture, who recently visited the principal European countries. Nature co-operates in restoring agriculture as she does not assist in reviving industry and trade. In consequence most of the late war-ridden countries are increasing their food production.

France he found the most prosperous country in Europe, not excepting countries like Holland and Switzerland. Great progress has been made in readapting land to crops in the devastated areas. Practically all lands in France of the better quality have been restored to cultivation. Out of more than five million acres to be readapted 4,400,000 acres had been reclaimed while much of the remainder is unproductive soil which will only be put under cultivation again when economic pressure compels.

He found trade in France extremely active, with prices relatively high, except in the case of some farm products. He found more unemployment in Austria than in any other country in Europe. Belgium has come back. France has come back. Italy has come back. All the war-ridden countries are coming back.

This specialist of the United States department of agriculture did not visit Russia, but he said on his return everyone recently there reported conditions better than people outside commonly believed. War destroyed vast wealth. Now the diggers of Europe are going about to replace it.

Labor agents from the United States are scouring the Canadian provinces for labor and are offering sixty cents an hour and transportation free as soon as the workers get to the other side of the line—that is cross into the United States. There is a demand for unskilled labor in all the industrial centers unless the reports are misleading. This is why the negroes of the south are deserting the cotton field and the Mexicans of the southwest are making their way to the north and east where the wage schedules are more inviting.

ANOTHER SMITH

Edward E. Smith, of Minnesota, is slated to become the next chairman of the republican national committee. A republican admirer of Smith says he has for years been regarded as the brains of the republican campaigns in Minnesota. Then he must have slipped a cog last year when Minnesota elected to the United States senate a farm labor apostle who is said to be one of the best dentists in the northwest. They do queer things in the northwest. How can a dentist be a farm laborer?

This Smith of Minnesota is said to be a close friend of President Harding, is closely allied with Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty and is a warm personal friend of former Senator Harry S. New of Indiana.

Will S. Hays piloted the republicans to victory in 1920. His reward was a cabinet position. He resigned from this to become the protector general of the American movies at a salary of $150,000 per year. There is only one Will S. Hays.

Democrats, of the office seeking stripe, will never forget him. He captured their pie counters and the followers of Jefferson and Jackson have been eating husks ever since.

In the mountain sections of Delaware county, New York, the mountaineers are cooking and eating rattlesnakes, claiming they are better than eels. Some believe the rattlers are destined to furnish an important article of food in the future. And New Yorkers claim to be the most highly civilized people on the continent of North America.

PUT AWAY GUNMEN

Ten thousand victims each year are the murder toll in the United States. Statistics compiled from 28 leading American cities for the year 1922 make a ghastly showing. These show that nine out of every 100,000 inhabitants of these cities were killed by the violence of others. Memphis has the highest murder rate; Nashville is given second place; New Orleans captured third place, St. Louis, fourth place, and Cincinnati, fifth. This shows that Tennessee captured "first and second money," to quote from the vocabulary of the sporting editor. Spokane won the lowest place, at the foot of the list, the murder rate there being only one per 100,000. Texas made a red showing in 1922, if Governor Neff has the correct statistics. According to his figures there were a thousand homicides in Texas in that year. Now why shouldn't the man with the gun be put away?

I should like to say further that if we are going to make of this America of ours all that the fathers sought, if we are going to make it true to the institutions for which they builded we must continue to maintain religious liberty, quite as well as civil and human liberty.—President Harding.

COTTON AND CHEAP LABOR

Georgia is face to face with a labor crisis. South Carolina is face to face with a labor crisis. Since 1920 228,938 negroes have migrated from Georgia to the north. Labor shortage on the farms of Georgia is estimated at 70,743 and 46,674 farm dwellings in the state have been left vacant. Within a year more than 70,000 negroes have migrated from South Carolina to the north and thousands of farms have been abandoned.

Before the coming of the Civil war negro slave labor produced the cotton crop of the south. Since the passing of slavery days cheap labor has produced the cotton crop of the south and largely the labor of women and children. Drastic immigration laws have shut out aliens from other countries. This has created a heavy demand for labor in the industrial centers of the north. Now they are tapping the negro labor reservoirs of the south and the Mexican labor reservoirs.

As the demand for labor grows greater in the north and the east the exodus of the negro from the south and the southeast will grow larger year by year. Now where will the south obtain the cheap labor to grow cheap cotton for the mills of New England and old England?

"Farmers of the nation should organize as labor has done," Samuel Gompers declared in an address before the national wheat conference. If wage earners had not organized, he said, nobody would have listened to their demand, and if the farmers expect to be listened to they must do likewise. Gompers knows.

A TEXAS INDIAN

District Attorney Job H. Banton, of New York, who has been crusading against crooked brokers and bucket shop proprietors is a former Texan. He was born in Texas, reared in Texas, educated in Texas and then moved on to New York where he became a prominent member of Tammany Hall, and last year was nominated to the office he now fills and elected by a tremendous majority by the democrats of Manhattan Island. He has sent to the penitentiary many daring crooks, he has closed many well known brokerages and he has removed from the public picture gallery many erstwhile prominent faces who performed in the financial district. Think of a Tammany Indian who journeyed all the way from Texas to make good and to make the crooks and gamblers of the metropolis realize that laws are made to be enforced in or out of Wall Street.

Pussyfoot William E. Johnson has sailed for the far east where there are 215,000,000 Hindus and 100,000,000 Buddhists, who have been taught total abstinence for something like two thousand years. Pussyfoot is going over to cultivate their acquaintance and stamp out wet spots wherever he finds them. It must be admitted that the Hindus and the Buddhists haven't traveled very far in three thousand years. They've kept on the water wagon and that's all.

ON THEIR TRAIL

A former president of the New York Consolidated Stock Exchange asserts that fraudulent promotions have cost the public more money than all the bucket shops that ever existed, and that $300,000,000 in fraudulent oil stocks alone were distributed in the state of Texas last year. This former president of the New York Stock Exchange should visit Port Worth or Dallas where he will find the federal courts grinding, juries returning the verdicts of guilty, judges pronouncing sentence on convicted oil crooks and many indicted promoters awaiting trial. All this may have happened after the horse was stolen but an example has been made of many and the final chapter of the story hasn't been printed.

WHO WANTS 'EM?

There is another issue uppermost—on the other side of the ocean. The question of the transfer of the British West Indies to the United States in payment of the British war debts is becoming a live one in British politics. Now what would Uncle Sam do with the British West Indies? He has the Hawaiian Islands with 150,000 Japs to carry; he has the Philippines with a population both large and motley and mongrel. He has 8,000,000 blacks here at home. He is the guardian of Cuba, Haiti and San Domingo. He is said to have a mandate for the protection of Liberia and the Pacific Island of Guam has the flag flying over it. Now if it were Canada it would be different. But who wants the West Indies, war debts or no war debts?

WITHIN THE LAW

Senator Charles Curtis, of Kansas, is a republican statesman and an American lawmaker. Kansas is a petroleum producing state. Senator Curtis says depression in the price of crude oil during the last three months was primarily for the purpose of stock jobbing. He charges that certain stock jobbers have been systematically placed in possession of advanced information regarding the reductions to be made in the prices of crude and refined oil. Well, aren't they within the law? Stock raiding is their business. Gambling is their trade. King Petroleum has his favorites. If he has a hot tip to give out why not whisper it in the ears of those who are close to the throne? Business is business and the wise ones attend to the pickings.

William Jennings Bryan says it would mean the death of the democratic party to espouse a wet platform in 1924. The democratic party espoused a free silver platform once upon a time and survived the cemetery. W. J. B. was the undertaker in that memorable contest.

"WHERE PAVEMENT ENDS"

An advance notice says: Rex Ingram's most artistic work since "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse" is not only beautiful to look at but the hand of Ingram has made a wonderful picture again. It is a tale of the South Sea Islands, but it makes other South Sea Island films look as if they had been sunk under an earthquake in the Pacific. It is such a story as one rarely sees in pictures. There are no false heroics, no agonizing, no sentimental prettiness, no non-sensical jokum. It breathes of the wholesomeness and freshness of the outdoors.

The featured players are Alice Terry, whose performance is only exceeded by her unusual good looks, Ramon Novarro, who bids fair to become the successor to Rudolph Valentino, is seen as the charming, handsome, single-hearted native lover, also Harry Morey.

"Where the Pavement Ends" opens a four-day engagement at the Peoples Theatre on Wednesday of this week.

ADAM AND EVE

An advance notice says: After all, it's in the way you produce it. Here Cosmopolitan has taken an average story, spilled a fortune on its transmutation, to the shadow stage and still another fortune on gowns for the star, Marion Davies, assembled a cast, each member of which is an ideal type for the part, and made a highly interesting, satisfying picture.

Most folk are familiar with the story which enjoyed a long and successful stage career. It is rich in comedy. The story gives Marion Davies an opportunity to starle picture audiences with goons, jewels, T. Roy Barnes lends admirable support to the star.

The big feature of this production is its scenic mounting, both interior and exterior. There is one series of brilliant views showing a garden party which develops into a Venetian fête. The climax comes in a pageant that will bring the "ah's" and "oh's" of surprise.

"Adam and Eve" opens for a three-

Organizer

Jose Garin, publisher of El Mundo, Havana's most powerful newspaper, is on route to Spain, where he will try to organize the Spanish papers in Europe into a "Latin Press Association." He recently welded a large number of South American periodicals together. The purpose of the new move is given as "a purely literary advancement," but the charge has been made by many English language papers in South America that its real idea is to spread propaganda to discourage American "interference."

day engagement today at the Peoples Theatre.

"WHO ARE MY PARENTS?"

An advance notice says: "Who Are My Parents?" is another of these heart stories that William Fox is producing with such conspicuous success. Booked for the Pearce Theatre, starting Monday, it was written by a mysterious author who professes to be known as "Mr. X." The writer has demonstrated very clearly that he knows human nature and understands the value of appealing to the deepest instincts of patrons of the screen.

The story has to do with a stern and uncompromising father attempting to rule the life of his young daughter. By so doing he brings her and himself only unhappiness. Betty Lewis, yielding to her father's will, does not tell the man whose wife she becomes of an earlier marriage. This omission leads to serious consequences and there are many bitter tears shed by a broken-hearted mother until she and her child are united.

The production was directed by J. Seale Dawley. A finely balanced cast, in which a new comer to the screen, Miss Peggy Shaw, a former Ziegfeld Follies beauty, has a leading part, Roger Linton as Colonel Lewis, Florence Hillman as Barbara Draper, Niles Welch as Ken Tyler and Adelaide Prince as his mother are others in the cast. Florence Huns and Jimmy Laysley, a pair of precocious and delightful youngsters have an important share of the acting honors.

AUSTIN, July 7.—Application for mandatory injunction to require the Missouri, Kansas and Texas railroad to maintain its shops at Smithville, was filed in Travis county district court today by the attorney general department, representing the state and attorneys representing the city of Smithville. The petition asks that the court specify the number of men to be employed in shops at that point.

Ancient Stone Wall In Texas Is Mystery

ROCKWALL, Texas, July 7.—Bordering this town on three sides and extending for miles into the country is a broken and partly disintegrated stone wall which is said by archaeologists to belong to some ancient civilization. Seen particularly exposed below the surface of the ground, the rock wall is apparently built of sandstone and joined by mortar. It is said to have been first discovered by pioneer settlers in 1853 and the fact that its origin is still unknown rapidly spread its fame.

Sections of the wall have been found at many places near the city and its depths have been explored on many occasions, but the base of the wall has never been reached, although one early settler traced the wall to a depth of 80 feet, it is said.

IT'S ARTIFICIAL MARBLE NOW
 TAFT'S RANCH IN EXPANSION PLAN

Discovery May Lower High Cost of Building
 120,000 Acres in Texas Borders on Gulf

LONDON, July 7.—The London Chemical society announces the discovery of a way to make artificial marble. Powdered calcium chloride and sodium carbonate are mixed together in equal proportions in water, until they make a stiff paste. The mass is then put into a mould, and pressed with a force of 300 pounds to the square inch, and at a temperature of almost red heat until the mixture is dry and hard. A number of obscure chemical changes take place, which makes the mass hard as stone, and capable of taking a high polish.

Slabs of the stone are reported to have been turned out after eight hours of heating.
 Marble is a product of marine sediments and volcanic fires. It is laid down on the sea bottom as "shell lime," which gradually turns into chalk. If the strata should be deeply buried in the rocks, the intense heat of the earth causes chemical elements to rearrange themselves so that they crystallize into marble. Various impurities in the chalk give the marble its various hues.

Practically all varieties of marble are said to be possible by this new method. The moulding will probably do away with much of the sawing of slabs that is now done.
 Ingredients Not Costly
 The ingredients of artificial marble are not in themselves expensive, and a lowering of the price of marble finish may result if the new stone comes into general use.

A BALL PLAYER, CAUGHT OFF THIRD, MAY BE IN CONDITION THOUGH RUN DOWN

Comedy of Errors in Third Frame Costs Texacos Another Issue

Olivier Hurls Usual Stellar Brand While Gulf Wins Game, 5-2

Kring, Pasted for Seven Scattered Hits, Fails To Receive Support From Texas Company Nine in Postponed Clash

A HIT, a comedy of errors at short and third, and wise base-running on the part of Andy Trauth in the third stanza cost the Texacos Stars a possible leadership in the City League yesterday afternoon on Lakeshore diamond when the fast Good Gulf club romped over them to the tune of 5 to 2.

Trauth, using his head and pulling the ball in his direction when succeeding Gullie batters came to bat the offerings of Kring, managed to gain considerable attention around the third base station, and as a result, Bill Palmer muffed the ball twice, "Nookie" Priester executed the same trick once, while Romero let one slip through his hands and the Gulfies ran in four runs during the stanza. And they let it go at that for another ball game.

The clash between the Gulf and Texacos, postponed from May 9, went the entire League route of seven frames, and started off one of the fastest exhibitions of baseball futility could expect. Kring received the nomination Davis' proteges, and slammed over a wicked pill during the first three frames.

There wasn't an earned run in the game. Not a time during the play did a runner from either side cross the counting rubber without errors having already been chalked to the field that might have retired the player.

The Texacos jumped the early lead in the opening frame, when Bill Palmer took advantage of Burch's sacrifice, and dashed over the plate with a runner. That was all the Texacos made for several stanzas. In fact, it was not until the first of the sixth that the Gulfie opponents showed a spurt for additional damage.

Kring got four men out of the way in the last of the second and while Olivier, mainstay mound-man of the Gulf contingent, was swinging his most wicked arm for the Texacos to whiff at in the next few frames, the Gulfies sent eight men to bat in the third and got away with four runs on the errors and lonesome single.

Olivier led the fireworks in that never-to-be-forgotten round, and drew an out via the second-to-first base man route. Trauth was purposely walked, and stole second while Clark was batting. Clark hit into a fielder's choice, Priester, who recovered the pill, electing to pick Trauth off as he sped to third. But Andy, showing a heady bit of running between the fireworks, led Palmer out the ball a few times, return it to Priester, then dove into the base for a safe position while the third baseman was muffed. The catch, Curt Smith swung for over of Kring's offerings and at last hit into a fielder's choice. Trauth, dashing for home, drawing the attention of Priester to his direction, and getting into another rundown, resulting in Priester dropping the ball on a play that could have been an out. Fuller hit one to Romero, who permitted the ball to roll on to the outfield, scoring Trauth and Clark, while Smith followed in rapid order when Palmer let a throw ball pass on a sacrifice. His legs fluttered, Fuller scored and the home run was on. Well-picked for the day, the next three draws out in a row.

That was the ball game. It was all played in that third stanza, and decided on a lone hit and error. Kring pitched a hard game, but failed to receive the support that should have been accorded his efforts. Although the Gulfies necked him for seven safeties, one of which went on record as a two-base drive, the hits were scattered. Kring let one go in the first, dashed out another in the second, batted one to the outfield in the third, threw a pair in the alley during the fourth, was eluded for a double in the fifth and handed out another in the sixth.

Olivier conducted his work like a general. He played the usual stellar performance that the Gulf receives from him when he is pitching, and the Texacos were put away with only five hits to their credit, one of which, however, went for the longest drive of the day when Bill Palmer crashed over Andy Trauth's head in center and made in good for three bases, scoring with Smith overhauling. Priester's head, seven strikeouts went to the credit of the Gulfie moundman, while Kring was unable to chop away but four.

The late rally developed by the Texacos came entirely too belated to count for much, and Olivier was pitching an airtight brand in that final stanza to win his game.

Only Aldrich Missing On Yale Grid Staff

NEW HAVEN, Conn., July 7.—The make-up of the football coaching staff at Yale next fall has been announced. Ex-Captain Aldrich, who assisted in the coaching of the backs last year, is the only member of the staff not to return. His place will be taken by Doc Jordan, last year's captain. Other members of the staff will be: Ted Jones, head coach; Dr. William E. Ball, Charlie Camerford, and Myron Fuller. Fuller will coach the line candidates, Camerford the ends and Dr. Ball will have charge of the second scrum eleven. Jordan will assist in coaching the backfield men.

Lad Hits 'Em Hard in Ring, But His Mother Still Wallops Him

NEW ORLEANS, La., July 7.—A "mammy" boy—this Basil Galiano, And he admits it.

Yet none dares call him "Spicy." The gang on the corner learned that long ago. And rather painfully, at that, through a series of grotesquely decorated and badly battered naps.

For Basil, he it known, is a dog-eared hand with his nuts, even though he is tied to his mother's apron strings. Fact of the matter is that he's already battered his way up to dizzy and precarious heights on the fizzy end. And he doesn't intend to stop until he's reached the top.

He's the new southern lightweight champion. And still going strong. No telling where he'll land. Only a kid yet, you know. Twenty years old, to be exact, with the down scarcely gone from his chin.

In all the world there's only one person he fears. And that is his mother.

For "Ma" Galiano still puts forth a good wallop with the old slipper. Basil testifies to that.

Now Basil is the baby of the family. He's the youngest of the 22 Galiano boys and girls. His mother, a fine type of Italian-born American citizen, believes in big families.

But she doesn't believe in boxing. "Why, Basil is only a child," she told the interviewer. "Look at this! And she picked him up in her arms. "No, I don't like this boxing business, especially for such young boys. It beats me how my boys want to be boxers."

"There was Frank (Kid Gage). He boxed for a long time. So did Charlie. It almost broke my heart to see them come home with cut faces and black eyes. I was so glad when I found they were expert enough to stay in the business."

"But what do you think happened? Four years ago, mind you, this youngster, and she threw an arm around the neck of the lad who recently won the decision over Pal Moran, 'can't home late one night."

"We heard him take off his shoes. They a lot of silver money dropped out of his pockets."

"My goodness, I said to my husband, 'has that boy gone fighting, too?'"

"My husband asked him what he had dropped. Basil was pretty smart. He said, 'I dropped the dog chain.' "Well, that didn't satisfy me. It wasn't long before I discovered that my baby had been in his first fight and got $15 for knocking out Kid Herman. Then I took a hand again, and I give you a fight myself. He promised me he wouldn't for a while."

"From February, 1919, until June, 1920, he did not fight again. I thought he had given it up for good, for he was working and doing well. Then he went back to it. The first thing I know he got $1000 for fight-

Detroit Double Crosses Cleveland by Sending Flagstead to Boston

CLEVELAND, July 7.—Years ago the late Harry Pulliam, then president of the National League, in discussing a diamond dispute, coined an expression that will live in the world of sport forever. "Take nothing for granted in baseball."

Every year countless things come up in the baseball world to verify Mr. Pulliam's sizeup of the situation. In other words, in baseball you can't figure on anything until it is all over and settled.

It is said that a bit of ill-feeling now exists between the Cleveland and Detroit clubs as the outcome of the deal that sent player Flagstead from Detroit to Boston.

Cleveland wanted Flagstead, and to increase his chances of getting him had gone out of its way in favor of Detroit on several player deals, so as not to clash with the Tiger management. It is reported that the Cleveland club had been assured that it could have Flagstead for the waiver price when the proper time arrived.

It so happened that the Indians dropped away to a flying start in the pennant race. The Tigers didn't do so well. Ty Cobb naturally didn't relish the success of his greatest rival, Tris Speaker. Cobb had no desire to further help the Indians. Flagstead might go big for Speaker and that would hurt still more.

So instead of Cleveland getting Flagstead, he was traded to Boston for Outfielder Gorbil, who was immediately sent to the minors, which merely proved the player was sent to a tailender rather than a club up in the race.

"Take nothing for granted in baseball," was sure a wise remark.

True, True, and There Are More Yet to Die

Six world champion fighters were toppled from their lofty thrones during the first six months of 1923. The debonair monarchs of the ring include Jimmy Wilde, Johnny Buff, Johnny Kilbane, Jack Britton, George Carpentier and Battling Siki.

Unsure lies the head that wears a crown.

YANKS LOSE, 13 TO 3

ST. LOUIS, Mo., July 7.—The New York Yankees were defeated by St. Louis Browns here today by a score of 13 to 3. Babe Ruth made two homers, making his total for the season 18.

The score:

New York 100 010 010—3 8 4
St. Louis 004 011 70x—13 7 0
Shawkey, Koettger and Hoffman; Vaugilder and Severid.

Firro Will Be in Condition for Bout

NEW YORK, July 7.—Luis Firpo will be in the best condition of his career when he meets Jess Willard on July 12 at Jersey City, according to his trainer, Jimmy De Forest. Since coming to this country, Firpo has not had the benefit of outdoor training until now, and since he and De Forest patched up their differences, Luis was never better pleased with conditions. He is living at De Forest's place in Allentown, and training at the Ocean Park Casino at Long Beach.

The summer solony at the beach is being treated to some real fighting since Firpo started his training. He works daily with Bill Tate and Jack McAuliffe for three rounds each.

Jess Willard has added Jim Hibbard of Mexico City to his camp and has placed Jack Siskely in charge. Willard is looking better every day and is not losing any sleep worrying over the result. He is full of confidence and does not expect the bout to go longer than eight rounds.

"I wanted him to quit then while he had enough money to start a little business. But he said he would wait until he could win money."

"He did the other night. Now he wants to be world's champion. I shall let him go on. But he is still my baby and is going to obey me. If I ever hear of him not taking care of himself, well, I'll use that slipper."

No fighter New Orleans ever has developed—Pete Herman, not excluded—has had a more rapid rise than Galiano.

Last December he fought to a draw with Johnny Dundee, then boxing a lightweight. Dundee admitted Basil had great possibilities.

Pal Moran declared Basil's blows hurt him worse than Benny Leonard's.

Basil always was a shifty boxer of the Mike Gibbons type. It was only

ELKS MATCHED WITH 'FLYERS'

Play Today on Lakeshore at 3:30 P. M.

Matched against another Beaumont aggregation, the Port Arthur Elks tangle up this afternoon in a game with the Erie Flyers for their second encounter this season.

"The Flyers are better and stronger than they have ever been this season," statements carried in Beaumont newspapers said recently, "and they are going down to Port Arthur to outdo the Toggery Shop with a better team than the Toggery boys carry along."

All of which remains to be seen. The Elks already claim one win over the Flyers the game having come on record as one of the most decidedly lopsided affairs local fandom has witnessed in some time.

This afternoon, they're coming back for more, and Skipper Cliff Gunn is taking no chances. He's sending his best lineup into the field to lock horns with the visitors, fully intent upon annihilating them in baseball fashion.

With the Flyers claiming a win over Saratoga, and Saratoga claiming a win over the locals, all of which happened since the Elks invited the Flyers down here the first time, the dope at least makes the visiting boys for this afternoon's clash more formidable than on the previous occasion.

The game will be staged on Lakeshore diamond at 3:30 o'clock, and fandom is urged to turn out and help boost the Elks on to another walk-away.

Mack Worries Along With Seven Pitchers

Only seven men, and one of them only a relief hurler, compose the pitching staff of the Athletics. The regulars are Rommel, the American League pitching ace in 1922; Naylor, a veteran; Hasty and Harris, right-handers, and Southpaw Heimach, Walberg, a Giant castoff, was added recently, but has been used more as a relief pitcher. The seventh member of the squad is Ogden, a right-hander, who has been of little use this season, having had a lame arm.

When the double-header season starts later on, Connie may have his troubles with go-few hurlers, for, of course, some of his seven may be out of the game when the double bills are staged.

SCHANG HAS MORE NERVE THAN BURLGAR

"Sandow" Schang they call him—with the accent on the "sand."

Mening Walter, who catches for the Yankees. That's just one of the names. Inevitable but expressive ball players refer to him as a tough bird, a fighting freak and as having "more nerve than a burglar."

Sometimes he's called worse than that, especially when he blocks off an ambitious base runner at the plate. Schang does that. He's not afraid of shots, slams or spikes.

That's the reason why he caught two games on the last western trip of the Yankees with a cracked rib and the muscles torn from several places. Two assistant catchers were shot from under Miller Huggins, and Schang had to step in.

Nothing at all in Schang's life, says Ed Barrow, who used to be his manager in Boston. It seems that Walter got a bad break on the wrist one day, and they looked about for another catcher. None was in sight.

"Go ahead and catch," said Barrow. "You can do it. We'll have an X-ray taken tonight and see what's the matter."

Schang caught. That night they took the X-ray. It showed no break there, but it showed one, knut and healed, of three months before.

HALF AND HALF

WINNIPEG, Manitoba, July 7.—Feminine breeches, which appeared on Winnipeg golf links last summer, took another trench here when they invaded Portage avenue.

The women wore the last word in feminine dress from the waist up, and neatly masculine from the waist down.

"Hey, look at the he-flappers," cried a nearby man.

"That's the last thing in feminine shopping costume," one passer-by commented.

"They never got those here: they must be from the States," was one opinion.

recently he developed a real punch. And he's always as cool as a cucumber.

Some of these days he's going to take on Johnny Dundee again. And maybe his mother and Mrs. Carrozza, Johnny's mother, will be sitting in the same box. They were girlhood chums back in Palermo, Italy.

"I know we won't get mad at each other," says Mrs. Galiano.

"Ma's" one regret is that she couldn't have entertained "that Carrozza boy" at her home when he was in New Orleans. But Basil and his friends said that wouldn't be ethical.

After he disposes of Dundee and a few more of Johnny's class (that is if Lady Luck still travels with him), Basil intends to challenge Benny Leonard.

And thus some day perhaps a "mammy" boy will wear a runner's crown in the land of the book and cross.

JOE DUGAN OUT AFTER BALL LID

Wants Honors for Work at Third Base

NEW YORK, July 7.—Jumping Joe Dugan is out after the title of the best third baseman in the history of baseball.

The fans he is raising up at the Yankee Stadium these hot afternoon approximate a riot. He is snugging blistering drives with a cool, calm glove, running down bunts like a keen-eyed deer, shooting them over to first base as fast as anyone ever did before and socking the ball for a snap-out.

The New York sport writers claim he is better than Willie Kamm, who won the White Sox $100,000; Walter Lutzke, the $150,000 star of the Cleveland Indians; the veteran Kid Paster, or the youthful Haney of the Tigers.

There is no doubt that the old Athletic star is playing the best ball of his career and getting better every day. There is no doubt that he is the best fielder around the hot third corner.

His style of covering ground revives visions of Bill Bradley, the old Cleveland Blue star, and Collins of the Boston Beane Braves. He kills many drives that would be hits if they were sent down to some of the other third basemen of the league.

One thing that strengthens his claim to the title is the fact that McGraw has switched Frankie Frisch over to second base instead of letting him play at his old stand.

Lipton to Try Again For Cup Next Year

NEW YORK, July 7.—Sir Thomas Lipton will challenge again this year for another series of races for America's cup to be run in the summer of 1924.

Charles Nicholson and William Fife, two of England's most noted yacht designers, are to collaborate on the design of the new challenger, which will be named Shamrock V.

At the Robert Jacob yard at City Island, it was said Sir Thomas had ordered the 25-footer Shamrock reconditioned to be the most overseas as a trial horse for the new yacht.

The Shamrock IV, with which Sir Thomas made his fourth unsuccessful effort to lift the cup in 1920, also is to be put again into commission to be used as a trial horse on this side.

Whether the New York Yacht club holder of the trophy, would build a new yacht to meet the new contender, or would rely on the Resolute, which defeated Shamrock IV, or the Vanitie, which narrowly lost in the competition for the honor of cup defender, could not be ascertained.

Law Prohibits Ban On Sunday Baseball

City or village ordinances prohibiting baseball on Sunday, cannot be enforced in North Dakota, it is held in an opinion by First Assistant Attorney General John Thorpe, to Mayor A. C. Grant of St. Thomas, which passed a prohibitory ordinance.

Pointing out that Sunday baseball is specifically permitted between 1 and 6 p. m. in a law enacted by a vote of the people, Mr. Thorpe holds the town ordinance cannot supersede this law.

200,000 Crowd Inside New London Stadium

A new record in sport stadiums is established by the new Wembley Hall field, near London. On the date the big stands were opened to the public, 200,000 persons crowded inside the gates.

The arena itself has a seating capacity of 320,000 but the others managed to push their way in somehow or another.

That crowd of 200,000 which went to see a soccer game is 110,000 larger than that at the Dempsey-Carpenter fight, which previously was looked upon by all Americans as the largest assemblage ever to witness a sporting event.

The nearest approximation to anything of the kind in the United States is the new Yankee stadium, which seats 75,000. The Yale field will hold 60,000, and Braves, field in Boston 48,000.

There does not seem much chance that the United States soon will go beyond what it now has. Big promoters believe the top notch in attendance for boxing was reached at the Dempsey-Carpenter affair. They say there will never, in many years, again be such a gathering.

Hence arrangements now are being made to conduct big athletic events within the facilities already available here.

LIVELY BALL SLATED TO GO, RUMOR SAYS

There is talk again of the "lively ball" making its exit. It is said it will be less skittish after the present supply on the market has been exhausted.

Before the final month of the season rolls around any one getting a home run is likely to earn it. The manufacturers, according to trustworthy sources, have been tipped off to "slow up" the erratic drive in order to make the circuit drive a little more respectable.

That a "slower" ball is likely to revolutionize the "rabbit ball" has come into play the players have been compelled to adjust their fielding to the speed of the new ball. The White Sox, led by Eddie Collins of Philadelphia, have had a hard time getting acquainted with the fast-traveling sphere, and consequently have been charged up with a lot of costly plays, both of commission and omission.

Youngsters, who have seen nothing else, have learned to handle it better than the veterans, but they are all having their troubles, and maimed hands and legs have become too common for comment. Also the pitchers claim that the present ball is harder to throw than the old one. Why it is, is not clear, as the weight and size is the same.

Mike McTigue, light heavyweight champion of the world, was out-pointed by Tommy Loughran of Philadelphia, according to the newspaper verdict, in an 8-round scrap in the latter city. The scribes accorded Mike only two of the session.

Windsor Park Golf Links Sold for a Purse of Million

CHICAGO, July 7.—The Windsor Park golf links, purchased by J. Ogden Armour to serve as a campus for the Armour Institute of Technology, was sold by the institute today for $1,000,000.

The sale followed that of millions of dollars worth of bank stock held by Armour, as well as "Gold Coast" property which the packer had purchased on which to erect a city home. The intended campus was bought by a New York syndicate which will make it into a new residence suburb.

Officials of the Continental and Commercial National bank holdings, in which Armour has disposed of, said it was Armour's intention to liquidate loans made at the time of the Armour-Morris merger as soon as possible.

Kinks-o' the Links

Player drove his ball into casual water in a hazard. The hazard was a dry ditch except in very wet weather. The ball was seen to strike the water from the tee. When the players reached the spot where the ball landed it was discovered to have floated some distance away from the water in the hazard into casual water through the green.

The player has a right to redrop the ball without penalty. If the player found the ball resting in casual water through the green, he must drop it from that spot, even though he knows it first entered the casual water in the hazard.

Player took his ball and then decided to take a couple of practice swings before driving off. His third swing struck the ground near the tee ball and caused it to drop from the tee. Is there any penalty for such a happening, the club not actually striking the ball, but the contact was so close it dislodged the ball from the tee? Would there be a penalty if the club actually hit the ball while the player was indulging in a practice swing?

A practice swing means nothing. The ball is not in play, hence no penalty is incurred because the stick struck the ground so close to the ball that it fell for no reason. There would be no penalty if it actually hit the ball, since the ball is not considered in play while the golfer is indulging in a practice or limbering up swing.

Strategy Often Victorious in Ring; Tricks as Good as Crack on Jaw

That the weaker fighter can—and in many battles has—won the referee's decision through brain work and strategy when lacking in the power to put his opponent out with a crashing drive to his jaw, is probably well known to close observers of the fight game.

The late Jim Hall, once middleweight champion of Australia, who lost the American title when Bob Fitzsimmons, in the fourth round of their New Orleans fight, put Jim to sleep with a mighty crack that Jim afterward said he saw coming but was unable to avoid, used to tell this story to illustrate the worth of strategy at the psychological moment in a ring contest:

"Memphis housed a big fighter known as Jim Lawler, who had been going fairly well, because I needed a little money. I got a promoter in town to match me up with Lawler. I wasn't in shape to go any distance, but I didn't have a very high regard for Jim and thought I could put him away in a few rounds.

"But Lawler was either brighter than I figured—or my punch wasn't as good as it used to be. Anyway, we went three rounds and not only was I unable to knock him out but I couldn't stop his beating.

"In the fourth, I put everything I had in a last punch. Bang! he went. But at the count of four he was getting to his knees, all ready to jump up. I knew if he ever got back to his feet all he needed to do was to wiggle a glove at me and I'd collapse.

"So in the crisis, I stepped over to the referee and, in a loud voice, said:

"Say, don't count so fast—don't count so fast. I owe this stiff a beating and I can't give it to him if you count him out. Slow up the count—let him rest. I want him to get up."

"Lawler heard what I said—and flopped back to the floor and was counted out."

And then there's that story of how Kid McCoy, a dozen years beyond ring prime, took on a spectacular youngster—and won the fight by the use of strategy, trickery—or call it what you wish.

Back in 1908 McCoy, then doing a "comeback" only for the purpose of getting a few dollars, hurled a deft at Jim Stewart, one of the best looking youngsters of that era. But don't get the idea that the kid went into the fight with the idea of losing. He was wildly anxious to win so that he could get other tussles and added cash.

The referee called the fighters to the center of the ring before the fight began to explain some rules. When he had finished McCoy followed him; he didn't quite understand the rule in hitting on the getaways.

"Now suppose we're in a clinch like this," exclaimed McCoy, grabbing Stewart, "and as we break I smack him like this—what's that violation of the rules?"

McCoy smacked Stewart—smacked a right hander to the chin with everything he had back of it. Stewart's legs wobbled under him; his eyes began to glaze.

"That would be a foul," answered the referee.

"Thank you," said the kid, racing for his corner.

The opening bell banged. Stewart came out still groggy. McCoy caught him in an early clinch and hissed in Jim's ear:

"Go along nice and easy, boy, and I'll let you stay the limit. Get rough—and, well, I'll have to knock you out."

Stewart, who could undoubtedly have out the old and out of condition McCoy away in a few rounds had he rushed him, kept away from McCoy in fear. He didn't know that the pre-battle punch which the kid had landed carried all the power of the kid's frame back of it. He thought it just one of the kid's "taps."

So he stayed away. McCoy made his own pace—and the battle went the full distance.

Joe Beckett, British heavyweight, has definitely decided to fight Georges Carpentier, July 26.

GIBBONS MAY GET BIG PRIZE

Home Folks Subscribe $20,000 for Scrapper

ST. PAUL, Minn., July 7.—Tommy Gibbons did not face Jack Dempsey in vain—his "home folks" tonight planned to give him a purse of $20,000.

The gift probably will be raised by popular subscription, according to the intentions of a reception committee which will also tender him a banquet next week.

No president, king or lesser dignity was ever accorded a great "welcome home" today than St. Paul gave Gibbons. After ten thousand persons met him at the station, he visited around with Governor J. A. S. Parnell, and 40,000 more paid personal tribute to him.

It was during this demonstration that he told the United Press that Jim Dougherty, Shelby referee, "said nothing" to Dempsey about fouling, but cautioned Gibbons when he "accidentally hit outside the rules."

Gibbons also declared Dempsey is not a "sinner"—that he can meet the "Colorado pile driver" again and win.

The world's featherweight championship bout between Eugene Cragg, Gilbeholder, and Johnny Dundee has been moved up from July 20 to July 26. It will be held in New York.

Made 200 or more hits per season for 17 consecutive seasons. That's not a bad record for a man to retire on. He has smashed previous records held by Willie Keeler, Honus Wagner, Jess Burkett and other famous stars. But Cobb isn't preparing to retire. Some days ago he was batting .355, and enjoying it.

There have been remarkable records for time and endurance, but Cobb seems to have broken most of them. Old timers like Joe McGinnity, Jess Willard and Fred Morke have staged "comebacks," but Cobb never went anywhere he could come back from.

BROADWAY GOES BACK ON BENNY LEONARD

New York and its habitues have turned thumbs down on Benny Leonard, the esteemed lightweight champion, following his rather dubious performance against Pinkney Mitchell, and the subsequent testimony of men who witnessed the affair.

There were no absolutely through and out that the first contender with a punch to hang on along will "take" him like a suicide takes poison. Many predict that Lew Tendler will take him in their bout in the Yankee stadium July 23.

This is an old story that has been exhausted many times in the last several years, yet the existing reports have a very plausible ring. For example, Pat Moore, the bantamweight, says Leonard boxed like a wooden man against Mitchell and would have been easy for Charlie White or Lew Tendler on the night in question.

Pat's opinion, obviously, is sincere and entirely disinterested. Not quite so unbiased, perhaps, is the word of White himself, but it serves to emphasize the trend of opinion.

Clips One and Fifth Seconds From Record

Johnny Weissmuller, I. A. C. swim star, clipped one and a fifth seconds off his own world's record for the 500-yard free style race for a 75-foot pool when he negotiated the distance in 5:20 2/5 at the Great Lakes Naval Station.

Weissmuller's performance was easily the outstanding feature of the athletic contests held in connection with the outing and barbecue of the third annual convention of the National Association of Winchester clubs.

Joe Beckett, British heavyweight, has definitely decided to fight Georges Carpentier, July 26.

AVIATORS WITH PICTURES LOST

No Trace of the Men Who 'Shot' Shelby Fight

LOS ANGELES, July 7.—No trace of the two planes carrying pictures of the Shelby fight which have not been heard from since they left Salt Lake for Los Angeles July 5, was picked up today, despite a widespread search made by authorities at points along the Union Pacific Salt Lake line which the aviators intended to follow.

Kenneth R. Fager was piloting a fast single seater for the Newspaper Enterprise association, according to scanty information received here.

Frank Clarke and an assistant whose name is unknown, was piloting a large plane for a local newspaper.

The two planes left Salt Lake about noon July 5.

A thorough canvass of railroad men along the Salt Lake line failed to reveal a trace of the aviators since they left Salt Lake.

It is feared they lost their way and were forced down somewhere in the desert.

BAN SEEKS TO OUST CHASE FROM MEXICO

Hal Chase, for many years a star of the diamond and idol of baseball fans, will be kicked out of Mexico where he recently went seeking new fortunes. It Ban Johnson, president of the American League, has his way.

Chase, after a career of ten years or more, during which he ranked as a star in both the American and National leagues, was barred by Judge Landis from ever again playing professional baseball in the United States. He was charged with throwing games.

Johnson, it appears, recently learned that Chase had crossed the border to the south with the idea of teaching baseball to the Mexicans. He has written a letter to the Mexican embassy urging Charge d'Affaires Manuel C. Tellez take immediate steps to prevent the Mexicans from learning the Chase brand of baseball.

Senator Tellez replied to Johnson assuring the American League president that he and other officials of the Mexican government would do everything possible to keep all undesirable baseball players out of Mexico, in order that the game may acquire no taint in its infancy there.

START CLASHES IN GOLF MATCH

Opposing Teams Play at the Country Club Today

Tournaments? Yep! Just like the armored tournaments of old!

That's the way Instructor Neely says the two golf teams of the Country club under the guidance of Captains Howard Smith and George T. Craig will tangle up this afternoon for the opening round of play in the tournament which will be concluded at the club today.

Interest in the matches has been growing for the past several weeks, and, with the culmination of the long wait in today's mixup, considerable spirit is expected to be shown in the event.

All members of the Country club are urged to be present and attend the signing of players for the respective clubs which will participate in the contests.

The New York Commission will not stop the bout between Benjie Leonard and Lew Tendler, July 23, because Leonard has been suspended by the New Jersey body for failure to meet Charlie White.

Who Has the Collyer Jawbone?

Present Owner of Fossil Specimen, Taken to America 50 Years Ago and Now Lost, Holds Key to New Discoveries That Would Put Back Dawn of Race a Million Years

LONDON.—Somewhere in America is the most wanted jawbone in the world—a jawbone with a romantic past, and a still more romantic future—if it can be found. It is the last chapter in the longest human interest story of all.

For a few brief years it eluded extinct catanek, then lay quiescent several hundred millennia at least, while wind and flood heaped 70 feet of earth on it, whence it emerged last century for a brief vogue among the scientists. But the story it told was incomplete, besides being incredible in those days. Then it disappeared. It was taken to America and vanished.

Last month, close to where it was found, other discoveries were made at the same depth. But they only tell half the story. The jawbone tells the rest. If that jawbone can be found and re-examined in the light of these later discoveries, it is believed that the birth of intelligence in the human race will be established as having occurred several hundred thousand years earlier than is supposed.

One day in 1855 a thirsty workman digging for a well in a pit near Ipswich, Suffolk, picked up a fossil jawbone and took it to the local druggist, who gave him half a crown (10 cents) for it. From the druggist it passed into the possession of a Norfolk baronet, Sir Thomas Hever, who in turn gave it in 1857 to Dr. Robert Huxley Collyer, formerly of Pittsfield, Mass. Dr. Collyer showed it to some of the leading scientists of the day, Huxley and Quaker among them. All thought it "remarkable," but in those days even the scientists were not willing to credit the human race with the very great antiquity indicated by its fossilized condition and the geological position in which it was found. Dr. Collyer wrote a paper on it which appeared in The Anthropological Review in 1857.

All Traces Lost

Then the curtain falls on the jawbone and the scientists of last century. No further notice seems to have been taken of it until a well-known English archaeologist, J. Reid Moir, happened to turn up Collyer's article in that old number of the Anthropological Review, and knowing so thoroughly the geology of the district was struck by the assertion that a corollary bed was to be found there 16 feet from the surface, his own impression being that the stratum was generally at a depth of at least 25 feet from the surface in that district. Greatly to his surprise he found that Collyer's geological detail was perfectly correct. The name of the farm had been changed, but with persistence and care he was able to identify an old pit near Foxhall hall as the one out of which the Collyer jawbone had been excavated.

Mr. Moir proceeded to remove all the accumulation of 50 years and then to explore the corollary pit at the 16-foot level. Very soon he was rewarded by finding a considerable number of flints bearing evidence of human workmanship, to great a number of them that he was able to establish the fact that in some remote time in the dawn of human intelligence this spot had been a workshop where flints were shaped into the first rude tools of stone used by man.

For the flints discovered in this ancient geological stratum 16 feet beneath layers of glacial gravel, fossiliferous ironstone, and sand, are not arrow-heads or knives of Neolithic days, nor even "scrappers" of any recent kind, but the crudest shape of adaptation of the natural shape of stones, so crude that it is almost impossible to conceive for what purpose the stones could have been used. Yet the flaking and shaping of them is unmistakably human. They are either shaped to a point or finely chipped to make a sharp edge. Two of the specimens are recognizably shaped as spearheads, being flaked on both upper and lower surfaces, and in both cases hollowed upon either side of the butt and as though they had been hafted in some way. A core of flint from which many flakes had been struck was further evidence of a workshop site. He also found a quantity of bones in a fragmentary condition, but not in the advanced state of mineralization of the Collyer jawbone. Some of the bones, it is supposed, are those of extinct Cretaceous.

Points to Very Ancient Use

Now these very crudely worked flints are sometimes referred to as "choppers," which means belonging to the dawn of the Stone age, and they have given rise to a big controversy among a lot of a million years or two as to the period when man first began to knock two stones together in order to trim them for use as implements or weapons. The choppers have been trying to prove for some years that man was a tool-making animal before the Ice age, that is in the Tertiary epoch, even as far back as the Miocene era, when the great reptiles were still nature's greatest achievement. Hitherto all their proof had been forced to rest upon the discovery of flints such as these. Mr. Moir has always been hoping to find human remains along with some of their crude flints and so obliging even the most incredulous and cautious scientists to accept them as proof of the existence of Tertiary man.

The Collyer jawbone, they now declare, is the evidence they want. Did its owner once feed on Saurian steaks and joints from the southern elephant, and other tropical delicacies in the marshy jungle, when Britain was still a corner of the continent? Or was it at least one incredulous authority deduces, the law of a man who sported with his fellow amphibians around their submarine workshop? These questions cannot be decided until the bone is re-examined—and the bone is re-examined. Dr. Collyer can be found for it is presumed that the jawbone, in view of the importance he attached to it, was left by him either to relatives or to some museum in America.

Drawings of the jawbone have been found. They show a jaw apparently more modern by a million years or two than would be expected in Tertiary man, amphibian or otherwise. One scientist of those days set it down as "the jaw of an old woman perhaps from a Roman burial ground," but later withdrew the opinion, as having been "too hastily expressed," confessing that it must be "of very great antiquity." He describes it as infiltrated through and through with iron, retaining only about 8 per cent of animal matter. Four or five teeth remain in position, the ivory also partly infiltrated with the same metal.

Education Board Not To Pass on Text Book Issue; to Await Neff

AUSTIN, Texas, July 7.—A meeting of the state board of education will be held between July 10 and 14 to buy books and transact routine matters, but the question of passing on textbook contracts made by the textbook commission last December and of certifying to counties the texts to be used will not be taken up before return of Governor Neff, it was announced after department of education officials conferred with members of the attorney general's department.

Acting Governor Davidson has announced he will not act on the validity of the textbooks, but the matter will be left for Governor Neff, chairman of the board, to deal with.

RELIGIOUS MEET SEES NEW WAR

World Rulers Asked to Turn To Christianity

WINONA LAKE, Ind., July 7.—Rulers of the world were asked to turn to Christianity as the only means of averting another world war by 2,000 delegates from 27 nations to the International Christian Conference here late today.

The plan was in the form of a formal address drawn by Charles Kiehl, New York City, and addressed to the rulers of all lands. Copies were sent to President Harding, the king of England, the president of France and Germany and other rulers. Speakers declared another war is inevitable unless conditions are remedied.

"Humanity is staggered by the possibilities of another war," the address declared. "Homes in every land over which the shadow of artificial death still hovers are saddened by the prospect of still further heartaches and suffering."

"The time has come to try Christianity. It has never failed in any field when given a fair chance. The nations of the world must depart from selfish individualities and human isolation. They must unite to create new standards on the teachings of Christ."
